JEALOUS HUSBAND IS SLAIN BY WIFE

Drives Her from House, but She Returns and Defends Herself.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Mrs. Enoch Hink shot and killed her husband at their home, about three miles above Port Dickinson, this morning about 4 o'clock. The act was done in self-defense. Hink, having made an assault on his wife with a knife. Hink was 53 years old, his wife 46. They have been married 23 years. For some time Hink has been jealous of a nephew, who has boarded at the Hink home.

Hink arrived home this morning intoxicated, and began quarreling with his wife. She ran outdoors in her night dress, barefooted and, pursued by her husband, fled down the road. He slashed at her with his knife and she fell in a ditch and rolled into a clump of fern brakes, where she hid. Her husband failing to find her, she ran to the house and barricaded her bedroom. Hink returned, succeeded in forcing the door open about a foot and repeatedly slashed at the woman with a knife.

Mrs. Hink had her 18-months-old baby on her right arm and could not hold the knife. She grabbed a shotgun, and while threatening her husband it was discharged and the contents entered Hink's chest just above the heart. He died in a few minutes. Mrs. Hink was not arrested.

SAFE BLOWERS WORK BOLDLY IN ALLEGHENY

Daring Trick Is Turned By Trio at Herrs Island Factory.

TWO STEEL VAULTS ARE SHATTERED

Hide Behind Furniture Four Times When Watchman Enters Room.

ONLY $600 IS SECURED

The protected safe-crackers of Allegheny have again broken faith with the police of that city. Early yesterday morning they broke into the office of the soap factory of W. H. Walker, on Herrs island, secured about $600 in cash, and wrought about $3,000 damage to safes and office furniture and the building. The burglars effected their escape as easily as they entered the building. One safe they blew open with nitro-glycerin, and the other they forced with a "ratchet" and "dog." The watchman, Thomas Moynan, entered the office when the safe-blowers were working at least four times. The men hid themselves behind telephone booths and desks, while the watchman registered on his night indicator.

The safe on the west side of the office was blown with glycerin and it required two applications to open the doors. The last explosion shattered two of the doors and the fragments of steel riddled the office furniture like shot from a rapid-firing gun. Some fragments of steel six inches in size were imbedded three inches in the walls and ceiling. They could be found sticking into the plaster all over the office. Chairs, desks, book cases and telephone booths were shattered.

Ordered Watchmen Off.

One large piece of steel plowed through the ceiling and tore down about 10 bushels of plaster. No one about the factory heard the explosion, although there were eight men working in an adjoining building. The burglars were seen by Watchman Moynan when he was going to register at 12:30 o'clock. He was about to enter the office when he was challenged by a burglar on the outside.

"Get out of here, you old ——— ———," said one, "or I will blow the top of your head off."

The robbery was as well planned as it was executed. Early Saturday afternoon two well-dressed men went to the office and asked to see the city directory. In this manner they studied the interior of the office and located the safes.

Hid from Watchman Four Times.

At about 10 o'clock Saturday night the burglars "jimmied" the lower part of the office door, just off the railroad. Once in the office they started on the safes. The work done with the drills and ratchet must have taken two hours. Moynan visited the office every half hour during the night. There is an indicator at which he registered at those intervals.

At 10:30 o'clock he entered the office and the burglars were there. They hid back of the desks and teleghone booths until he passed out. His register is at one end of the room, and he said yesterday he never visited the other end of the office during the night. Four times he went to the office while the burglars were there. His last register is recorded at 12 o'clock.

First Safe Was Easy.

The first thing the burglars did was to cut the telephone wires and receivers. There were four safes in the office. The safe on the west side of the room was the first attacked. It is a large burglar proof affair. To get to the money drawers three steel doors have to be opened. This safe was opened by a "ratchet" and "dog," otherwise known as an "old man." The combination knob was torn from its fastenings, also the lock knob. In doing this the burglars twisted a sheet of steel door three-fourths of an inch thick back and shattered the lock and its cast covering inside.

The second door was opened in the same way and the small inside third door was then opened and some $350 taken. The burglars then went to the other large safe on the east side of the office. The outside door was forced with glycerin.

Office Wrecked by Explosion.

The second door was opened in a different manner. A hole was drilled near the bottom of the safe and one above the knob. It was the intention of the burglars to shatter the third door and the entire contents of the safe. They soaped the crevices and injected the glycerin. After lighting the fuse, they closed the front doors of the safe to drive the force upward and backward. Their efforts were not successful.

The glycerine shattered the first and second doors and drove the fragments of steel like grape shot out of a cannon before it. The shattered bits of steel riddled the furniture and imbedded themselves in the ceiling. The plaster in the rooms was torn away, windows were broken and cracked, the telephone booths were riddled and shattered.

The noise of this explosion was not heard in the adjoining factory. Then the burglars resorted to the "ratchet" and "dog" to open the third inside door, where the money drawers are located. The marks on the knobs show the clutches of the ratchet. Some $250 was taken from this safe.

At this time, 12:30 o'clock, as the burglars were about to leave the office, Watchman Moynan went to register. He was challenged and ordered away.

Detectives Are Confident.

As Moynan started back to get assistance the two burglars came out of the office and ran up on the railroad track. Word was sent to the Allegheny central police station. Detectives P. H. O'Brien and Thomas Lee were detailed to investigate.

Yesterday afternoon Detectives T. C.

GERMANS CHEER FOR TWO RULERS

"Hoch Der Kaiser" and "Roosevelt Lebe Hoch" Heard in New York.

PRINCE IN THRONG

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Nov. 9.—"Deutscher Tag," a German feast day, which has been celebrated in other parts of the country for 20 years, was observed for the first time in this city this afternoon and evening. Ten thousand Germans gathered in Madison Square Garden, and, with vocal and instrumental music, calisthenics and gymnastics, speeches and banqueting, made festival in memory of the first landing of Germans in America.

The roof of the garden trembled with the response when Count Quadt, charge d' affaires of the German embassy at Washington, shouted: "President Roosevelt, lebe hoch." The great audience responded with tremendous enthusiasm, followed at once by "Hoch der Kaiser," with all the strength of 10,000 throats.

The entertainment was honored by the presence of Prince Von Piess, the official representative of the German emperor at the dedication of the new building of the chamber of commerce, accompanied by Herr Herrman, representative of the Berlin chamber of commerce.

The prince of Piess was very reticent when he arrived today and beyond saying that he would take up his quarters at the Waldorf-Astoria, had no information about himself or his mission to disclose.

TO IGNORE WALL STREET.

President Said to Have Thrown Big Speculators Overboard Hook, Line and Sinker.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—A special from Washington to the World says:

President Roosevelt has cast Wall street overboard, hook, line and sinker. It is stated on good authority that he has decided to ignore the big financial interests, typified by J. P. Morgan & Co., and similar organizations, and to advocate such policies as will benefit the people and enhance his popularity with the masses.

His plans are to be accomplished without any reduction of the present tariff. When tariff revision comes it is to be placed on a strictly scientific basis and handled by a tariff commission.

"My aim," the president said last week to a representative of one of the biggest houses in Wall street, "will be to benefit people without disturbing commercial conditions."

To that end radical laws to prevent railroad combinations and against organizations formed to control food, fuel and clothing products will be recommended to congress by the president. Every effort will be made to have laws embodying the president's recommendations passed at the coming session. In addition the president will ask Attorney General Knox to institute additional suits to prevent gigantic combinations of railroad lines.

ANGLO-GERMAN TREATY ROUGH ON PORTUGAL

THE HAGUE, Nov. 9.—(Copyright.)—A secret clause of the Anglo-German treaty relates to the acquisition of the Portuguese colonies in Africa. By this clause Germany will acquire the northern part of the Portuguese possessions as far as Beira, while England will take over the remainder, as well as Delagoa Bay and Lourenzo Marquese.

IRON CITY LOSES BIG FURNACES

The Pittsburgh Interests Driven Away by Crippled Traffic Service.

A $1,250,000 PLANT

Pittsburgh's inadequate railroad facilities are again responsible for the loss of a big furnace enterprise, which goes to Buffalo. It is the operation of the Buffalo and Susquehanna Iron Company, which will invest $1,250,000 in two monster blast furnaces, besides the expenditure on ore docks that the company will have at Stoney Point, where the Lackawanna Iron and Steel Company is getting ready for complete operation of its $10,000,000 plant, the nucleus of which was moved from Scranton.

There is a contingent back of the new Buffalo & Susquehanna Iron Company which has strong interests in Pittsburgh, but it was driven away through the ever-recurring railroad blockades, which make the securing of raw materials and the movements of the production an uncertain thing.

The new furnaces to go up at Stoney Point will be after plans of Engineer Julian Kennedy of Pittsburgh. Hugh Kennedy, his brother, will be general manager of the new company.

The Riter-Conley Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh has the contract for the erection of the furnaces, and will start the erection this week with a force of 100 men. Each of the furnaces will have a maximum capacity of 600 tons a day. They will be 90 feet high, with diameter of 22 feet at the bosh. The furnaces will have all the modern improvements devised or adopted by Engineer Kennedy, including automatic charging rigs.

The iron company is understood to have entrenched itself for its supply of raw materials with coal from Central Pennsylvania and ore from the northwest, which will be laid down on its docks alongside the furnaces. It is understood not to be the purpose to dispose of the product to the Lackawanna company, which is now having completed four monster furnaces.

BROOKLYN MINISTER STRICKEN IN PULPIT

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(Special.)—In his pulpit the Rev. Dr. John Reid of the Memorial Presbyterian church, Brooklyn, was suddenly stricken ill this morning and his congregation had to go home without hearing even the text of his sermon. Dr. Reid is one of Brooklyn's best known ministers.

EYES OF ROYALTY EVER ON AMERICA

Bishop Says German and English Blood Blends Across Atlantic.

BIRTHDAY OF KING

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Sandringham, England, Nov. 9.—The bright sunshine today brought crowds of visitors to Sandringham on the chance of seeing Emperor William.

The approaches to the church were lined with spectators. Queen Alexandra, the prince of Wales and Mrs. Chamberlain arrived at the church together. Half an hour later King Edward, Emperor William, Prime Minister Balfour, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and other distinguished persons arrived and stood chatting outside.

King Edward talked with Mr. Chamberlain for a few minutes; then the emperor of Germany approached and for a quarter of an hour the emperor and Mr. Chamberlain stood apart and conversed earnestly. The service had begun and the anthem had been reached before the royal party entered the church, the king taking the emperor's arm.

The bishop of Ripon preached on the possibility of the disappearance of race distinctions and the attaining of the grand brotherhood of man. He referred to King Edward's recovery from his illness; to the visit of his kinsman monarch, and to the ties which have long united Germany and Great Britain. The bishop said that while these countries were divided by the German ocean, a race blended of both peoples was continuing to grow on the other side of the Atlantic, where Germans and Englishmen were becoming one nationality.

During the day King Edward received a host of birthday congratulations and gifts. Emperor William gave him a valuable vase.

After dinner at the palace, the royal party heard Jan Kubelik, the Austrian violinist.

NEW YORK MEN PLAN GREAT LABOR TEMPLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Certain wealthy men in this city are considering the plan of erecting a large building, fitted primarily for meeting rooms for labor organizations. This was learned from a report made to the Central Federation union today by Mr. Morton, a trustee, who had been assigned to find a better hall for the union's meetings than that in the University Settlement building in Rivington street.

MISS ROOSEVELT ADDS COON CAT TO NUMBER OF WHITE HOUSE PETS.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—Miss Alice Roosevelt is in spirit with the renovations going on at the White House, and will do her part by furnishing a new pet. She has a coon cat from Maine to add to the collection.

There have always been divers and sundry cats in the historic mansion, but the small army of workmen with their incessant hammering made life a burden and they silently stole away. But the White House will not be catless, for a little coon kitten is to soon be domiciled within its walls.

When Miss Roosevelt was visiting in Lincolnville, Me., this summer she became enamored of a little gray kitten of the coon species so abundant in Maine. Coon cats, like Angoras, have long hair and bushy tails, but their heads are flatter. This little kitten lived with its mother's family and a family of pigs in co-operative housekeeping style. But the president's daughter, discovering this little Moses, wished to take it home with her and one of her friends purchased the little animal and presented it to her.

TWO END LIVES BY POISON ROUTE

McKeesport Woman a Suicide, Fearing Heart Disease.

ANOTHER TOOK ACID

Carbolic acid and belladonna were the means used by a man and woman to commit suicide in McKeesport yesterday. Mrs. Emma M. Claybaugh of No. 723 South Evans street, 34 years old, drank a quantity of belladonna because she thought that she would be a victim of heart disease. Joseph Madlovitz of No. 126 Market street, 22 years old, drank two bottles of carbolic acid because he lost an eye while at work 13 months ago.

Mrs. Claybaugh, after preparing breakfast for her son, went to a drug store that was formerly owned by her husband, Ralph Thompson, a clerk, boarded with the Claybaugh family, and Mrs. Claybaugh told him to go home for breakfast. He said that he could not leave the store then. Mrs. Claybaugh said that she would stay for him. While Thompson was at breakfast, Mrs. Claybaugh secured the belladonna. Thompson came back and Mrs. Claybaugh went home. By this time her husband was sitting at the table. Mrs. Claybaugh drank some coffee and complained of feeling badly. She told her husband she was going to die. Then she fainted.

She regained consciousness for several minutes and Dr. M. R. Coats was summoned. The woman died after he arrived, without making any statement of her reason for killing herself. Recently her father, mother and sister died of heart trouble, and the fact that she might become afflicted with that disease worried her so that it affected her mind.

Joseph Madlovitz lost an eye while at work 13 months ago. He was unable to work and the partial loss of his sight made him despondent. Saturday night he went to a drug store and bought six ounces of carbolic acid, which he drank, dying almost instantly.

APPENDICITIS CAUSES DEATH OF ANTELOPE

Stone and Gravel Proves Indigestible for Resident of Cincinnati Zoo.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9.—A most unusual case was met with by Sol A. Stephen of the zoo yesterday, when he discovered that the cause of the death of one of the zoo's herd of antelope was appendicitis.

This is probably the first case on record where an animal of the nature of the antelope has had the disease. The animal was an American pronghorn. It had not been acting right for some time and acted as though it were suffering great pain.

When it died it was dissected and the vermiform appendix was found filled with about a tablespoonful of what seemed to be gravel and small chunks of stone.

Ordered 500 Coal Hoppers.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—The Western Maryland railroad has given a contract to the Cambria Steel Company for 500 additional steel coal hoppers, each to have a capacity of 50 tons. The cars will be for use on the West Virginia Central and Pittsburgh division of the Wabash system.

PERRY DECLARES MASON IS GUILTY

Picks Him Out from Group as Accomplice in Slugger Cases.

ACCUSED IS NERVOUS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Boston, Nov. 9.—With the arrest of George L. O. Perry, the colored boy who, in his alleged confession, implicates Alan G. Mason, the slugger case took on several new phases today.

Detective Hurley of Cambridge found in a Cambridge street pawnshop a bicycle stolen from the vicinity of Center street, Somerville, the night Alice McPhee was murdered. The bicycle was pawned by a white man, who gave the same name as the man who sold to Pawnbroker Nemser the McPhee watch, "John Miller," and the address given was 23 Grove street, the same address given when the McPhee watch was pawned. The pawnbroker is positive the man was white.

Two other bicycles, pawned by the same man, have also been found.

Perry was taken to the Cambridge jail today and pointed out Mason as the man who, he claims, gave him both the McPhee and Morton watches.

Although when they met face to face, Mason denied ever having seen Perry before, Mason was very nervous, more so than he has been when any others have called to see him. Perry, on the other hand, was unconcerned and gazed at Mason for several seconds, then turned and went toward the door.

When Perry and the officer reached a point where several of the jail officials were standing, the officers stopped Perry.

"Do you know which one is Mason?" he was asked.

"Yes, I know him all right," said Perry. "He is the second man from the end."

Perry was correct.

It is now said that at least four persons saw a strange colored man in Waverly between 7 o'clock and 8:30 on the night of the Morton murder.

Perry has a bad record. When 14 years of age he got into trouble while attending the Sherwin school, and later was sent away for larceny. In 1899, on Columbus avenue, Perry snatched a pocketbook from a woman. He was sent to the Lyman school for boys. He came back to Boston last May, and it was on June 17 that the first of the "Jack the Slugger" crimes was reported.

RESISTS POLICEMAN.

Woman Assaults Officer With Whip When Stopped for Having No Light on Carriage.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The Sun this morning says:

A man and a woman, each in a runabout, were arrested at Riverside avenue and One Hundred and Tenth street last night by Bicycle Policeman McLaughlin for having no lights on their carriages.

McLaughlin stopped the woman's horse first, and he later reported to the sergeant that she struck him three times with her whip while he was doing it. The man stopped when the officer told him to.

The prisoners said they were Walter N. Smith and Mrs. Winsome Waring, a niece of the late Col. Waring.

MAN FROM AKRON COMMITS SUICIDE

CLEVELAND, Nov. 9.—L. H. Homan, resident and former councilman of Akron, committed suicide in a hotel here probably last night by taking carbolic acid. His body was found in his room tonight. Business trouble is believed to be the cause for the suicide. Homan was formerly connected with the American Cereal Company.

PARTY PEACE IS FAVORED BY BRADLEY

The Deputy Prothonotary Wants Warring Factions to Get Together.

IS OPPOSED TO USELESS WARFARE

Says Organization Should Support Bigelow or Rodgers for Recorder.

WANT FAIR TREATMENT

"In my opinion the old organization should be satisfied with the nomination of Thomas S. Bigelow or William B. Rodgers for city recorder. It would, of course, be understood that the nominee, if elected, would accord fair treatment to the men of the old organization."

This is the opinion of John Bradley, deputy prothonotary, and one of the foremost men of the old organization. In this utterance he voices the sentiments of many of the men who have led the organization in its two fights against the Citizens party. Recorder J. O. Brown is another who thinks it folly to engage in useless fights. Those of this opinion are not all in the old organization. Men who have supported the Citizens party in both contests believe that the time has come when it is wise to solidify rather than to break into fragments the Republican party. In both factions there are men who want to fight, but there are numerous others who prefer peace.

Must Be Harmony or Ruin.

"Unless the Republican party in this county is to be torn into fragments," said Mr. Bradley yesterday, "it is time to cease fighting. If the old organization has to make another contest it can do so, but wise men are opposed to useless wars. In my opinion it is time for the two wings of the party to get together. I believe that this can be done in an honorable way.

"We, in the old organization, retain a valuable asset in the name of the Republican party. We are also able to deliver over 20,000 votes. In my experience men have fought and won bitter victories in the Republican party when they were not in control of the offices. To keep up the war means the breaking up of the party. The Republicans of the Citizen party cannot elect state or national delegates, for in order to make their election regular, they must be made with the rules of the Republican party.

"It should be an easy matter to effect a reconciliation. I believe that many of the men of the old organization are ready to accept a Citizens party man for recorder. For myself, I would cheerfully support men like Thomas S. Bigelow or William B. Rodgers. I think that they are broadminded and fair. Honest treatment at the hands of the next recorder is all that our people should ask for. There are men on both sides who want to fight, but I believe that the great masses in the Republican party in Pittsburgh want peace, if it can be secured on honest and equitable terms."

To Perfect Central Organization.

Chairman Charles S. Crawford has called a meeting of the Citizens committee of 25 at Citizens headquarters, Third avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Chairman Crawford stated yesterday that the meeting was intended to perfect the central organization, so that an early start could be made in reorganizing all the wards of the city for the campaign for city recorder.

He said that notices had been sent out to every member of the committee and that a full attendance is expected. There are two vacancies on the committee to be filled. During the last campaign Oliver McClintock and W. T. Edwards resigned from the committee and their places will be filled as well as any other vacancies that may occur.

The following are the remaining 23 members of the committee of 25: Dr. Cadwallader Evans, George W. Guthrie, Capt. I. N. Bunton, Ira F. Brainard, John J. King, Albert York Smith, John L. Lewis, James R. Scott, Capt. T. Williams, Henry Staiger, Charles E. Whitesides, R. H. Douglas, Otto Heeren, C. S. Crawford, J. J. Booth, Dr. J. F. Shaw, A. T. Karr, Dr. D. J. McCracken, T. P. Hershberger, Charles A. O'Brien, Hugh Ferguson, D. O. Cunningham and J. B. Youngson.

One of the propositions that may be submitted is for the committee to enlarge its membership. Dr. Evans is said to be in favor of this plan, although others believe that additions to the committee would make it unwieldy.

SONG RELIEVES PAIN.

Little Boy Surprises Bellevue Hospital Officials When Seriously Injured.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—The American says this morning:

Little James Corrigan, aged 7, who fell into an excavation at Twenty-fourth street and Second avenue last night, astonished the doctors at Bellevue hospital by asking leave to sing.

"I won't hurt me so much if I can sing," he explained. He was given permission and in a clear soprano he sang, "The Palms."

The doctors and nurses listened attentively. He sang "Holy City," "Lead Kindly Light" and other religious selections.

FRENCHMAN TO STUDY LIFE OF AMERICANS

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The Figaro this morning announces the departure of Jules Huret, a member of its staff, on the French line steamer La Touraine for the United States. The purpose of M. Huret's visit is to write a series of articles on American life, the financial and industrial strength of the country and the probable effect of American industrial enterprises upon the future of Europe.

CANNON PEOPLE MAKE BIG BLUFF

Claim Everything in Sight in Contest for National Speakership.

A TRACE OF ANXIETY

Strength of Dalzell With Pennsylvania Delegation at His Back More Than They Bargained For—Some Great Promises.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
603 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.

Although the Republican caucus to elect the speaker of the next house will not be held for more than a year yet, unless there should be an extra session of congress, the contest over this prize has opened nearly as lively as though the contest were to be decided within the next two weeks. Some of the candidates are already here, while the absent ones have reliable friends looking after their interests.

The western contingent is making the most noise, the friends of Representative Cannon, in true western style, are ready to claim the earth and all that in it lies in behalf of their candidates.

Underneath this bluster is noticeable a trace of anxiety over the strength being shown by Representative Dalzell and the fact that he will have the loyal support of Senators Quay and Penrose and the other 27 Republicans of the largest delegation in the house.

Consequently, they are endeavoring to injure the boom of Mr. Dalzell by asserting that his election will mean that the Republicans have no intention of attempting to revise the tariff, notwithstanding how badly some of the sections may need it, and therefore the Democrats would benefit. This assertion is having but little effect, as all know that Mr. Dalzell is, first of all, a Republican, and if the tariff needs revising he believes that the Republicans should do the work.

Prior to election day there was a belief among many of the members that Mr. Cannon had the lead in the contest, but at this writing the Illinoisan is not more than even terms with the Pennsylvanian. All the indications are that Mr. Babcock will make an earnest fight for the honor, thus wresting votes away from Mr. Cannon. Then Hepburn will see to it that the Iowa delegation does not go to Cannon.

Another thing that is giving Mr. Cannon some worry is the leaking out of the fact that he has made a deal with Representative Hemenway for the support of the Indiana delegation. In the event of the election of Mr. Cannon to the speakership Mr. Hemenway is to be made chairman of the appropriations committee, thus jumping the "father of the house," Gen. Bingham of Philadelphia, who is telling the members from Indiana that this pledge will be carried out. While Senator Fairbanks in speeches in Mr. Hemenway's district made the same promise. As the same chairmanship had been promised by Mr. Cannon to Gen. Bingham, the Indiana exposé has raised havoc in some sections.

Representative Dalzell is quietly conducting his canvass and his advices indicate that he will have support from every section of the country. He has many pledges from members who are counted upon by the other candidates.

FINANCIERS PLEASED AT TURN OF AFFAIRS

Gloom of Saturday Dispelled by Syndicate Aiding Shipbuilding Combination.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 9.

Bankers and brokers who left Wall street yesterday surcharged with gloom because of the numerous unfavorable reports in circulation, expressed much gratification today over the news that a strong syndicate had practically completed plans by which all the outstanding obligations of the United States Shipbuilding Company were to be taken up and held for by a syndicate including J. P. Morgan & Co.

If the Morgan-Sheldon combination obtains control, therefore, the banking house of Morgan & Co. will again control the Bethlehem Steel Company.

The Bethlehem company's connection with the shipping trust dates from the coup of Charles M. Schwab over a year ago, when he acquired control of the property just as a syndicate headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the Morton Trust Company was closing negotiations. Mr. Schwab bid $1.50 a share more than his competitors. On account of the inability of the bankers to float the original shipbuilding combination, Mr. Schwab was "hung up" with the control of the Bethlehem Steel Company, and became the owner of a strong competitor of the United States Steel Corporation. Then the property was turned over to the underwriting syndicate of the United States Steel Corporation.

Once again the Nixon Shipbuilding company made its appearance and negotiations were opened with Mr. Schwab and the banking house of Morgan & Co. for the purchase of the Bethlehem company. According to the best information obtainable at the time, Mr. Schwab secured it for $7,500,000. Morgan & Co. had advanced $7,200,000, so that it made a commission of $300,000.

Mr. Schwab then turned the Bethlehem company over to the United States Shipbuilding Company, in payment for which he is said to have received $10,000,000 in collateral trust bonds, $8,000,000 in preferred stock and $5,000,000 in common stock of the United States Shipbuilding Company.

FANATICS FIGHT WITH OFFICERS

Canadian Police Have Hard Struggle With the Doukhobors.

EXPECT MORE TROUBLE

Government May Be Finally Defeated in Its Effort to Get the Strange People Back to Their Villages.

WINNIPEG, MAN., Nov. 9.—Another chapter in the history of the Doukhobors' pilgrimage to convert the world has closed, but with the ending "to be continued." The Doukhobors were taken by special train from Minnedosa to Yorkton last night, and today were kept in the cars, closely guarded by Northwest mounted police.

Although victorious at Minnedosa, it is a question yet to be decided if the government will not be defeated in the final effort to get the Doukhobors back to their villages. If the fight to move them 100 yards is any example of what the government has to contend with, it will take a much larger force to move the Doukhobors the 100 miles to their villages, which are that distance from Yorkton.

Minnedosa dispatches report stormy scenes during the entraining of the pilgrims there. After repeated interviews with Seikroff, the leader of the fanatics, Agent Spears decided to use force, and grabbing the leader by the shoulders, pushed him out of the building in which the Doukhobors had spent the night, at the same time calling upon the policemen to bring the rest. As they came out the fanatics locked themselves together, each man clinging to his neighbor, thus making a solid body. Then the excitement commenced.

The citizens turned out to help the police, but it was hard work to pry the fanatics apart, four or five men being needed to pull one Doukhobor from the interlocked mass. The majority fought every inch of the ground. The scene was one never equaled in Canada, a sullen, stubborn mob of people, fighting fiercely with police and citizens, not in the mode of warfare, but wanting only to be left alone and allowed to go on their way. A few went to the coaches alone, but the majority were carried bodily, dragged, pushed along, or loaded into the wagons of farmers who had gathered to see the fight.

MILLIONAIRE WETMORE IS GIVEN BAD BEATING

Peter Arlund of Louisville Accuses Him of Insulting Latter's Wife.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—Col. Moses C. Wetmore, millionaire, former tobacco magnate, and bosom friend of W. J. Bryan, was severely thrashed in the corridor of the Planters hotel tonight at 8:30 by Peter Arlund, a wealthy manufacturer of Louisville.

Arlund was waiting for Wetmore when the latter left the cafe after supper. In a loud voice Arlund accused the St. Louis millionaire of having followed Mrs. Arlund to her room and of having insulted her.

Col. Wetmore denied the charge. Arlund insisted that he was not mistaken and demanded an apology. In a dramatic voice Wetmore declared he would never apologize.

Arlund thereupon fell upon him with his fists and beat Wetmore until bystanders interfered. The loud tones of the two angry men had attracted a ring of spectators, but Arlund was able to get in several heavy blows before he was interfered with.

TO HUNT BEAR.

President Roosevelt Will Go After Big Game in Mississippi.

MEMPHIS, TENN., Nov. 9.—The Commercial Appeal tomorrow will say:

President Roosevelt and party will not be the guests of the Ozark Hunting and Fishing club this week, but on the contrary will go after bear in the vicinity of Grenville, Miss.

John H. McDowell, president of the Ozark Hunting and Fishing club, Saturday night received a message from George B. Cortelyou, secretary to the president, in which he expressed regret that it would be impossible for the presidential party to accept the invitation of the club for the bear hunt this week.

From another source it is authoritatively learned that President Roosevelt, Secretary Cortelyou and President Fish of the Illinois Central Railroad Company will go over the Yazoo & Mississippi railroad to a camp which has been established near Smead, in Sharkey county, Miss.

At the Mead camp the party will be the guests of Gov. Longino of Mississippi, Gov. Davis of Arkansas and Gov. Heard of Louisiana. They will remain in camp until the morning of the 19th, when they will return to Memphis in time to participate in the ceremonies to be given in honor of the Hon. Luke Wright.

ITALIAN SHOT DEAD.

Quarrel Over a Woman Results in Fatal Shooting Near New Castle.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—A fatal shooting was perpetrated as the result of a desperate quarrel over a woman this afternoon at Edenburg, on the Lowell electric line. Calavo Rocco shot and instantly killed Dominick Diana. Both are Italians and were employed on the double track construction of the Baltimore & Ohio. The fight was witnessed by a score of fellow-employes, besides the woman on whom their affections were centered.

Rocco ran, keeping the crowd at bay with his revolver as he hurried away. After a half-mile chase Johnson Parks and Samuel Loy, Edenburg citizens, came up with the fugitive. Rocco had thrown away his revolver, and Johnson and Loy started back with him. Constable W. H. Cover of Mahoning township met them and took charge of the prisoner.

REPUBLICANISM SOLID ON FARM

Good Prices for Products Make Farmers Take Their Politics Straight.

ANALYSIS OF THE VOTE

Democratic Gains Made in Cities, While Majorities Against Them in the Country — Urbanites Stand by President Roosevelt.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
603 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.

With the returns practically in from all the congressional districts, an analysis may be had of the conditions that were generally effective in the result. One point in this connection stands out far ahead of all others and that is that the great farmer vote of the whole country was not only satisfied to "leave well enough alone," but to "stand by President Roosevelt." Strange as it may appear, the Republicans did not lose a single district in the north where the farmers controlled the result, but on the other hand they lost a number of strong Republican districts in cities. In discussing this phase of the question Republican Congressional Chairman Babcock said today:

"All along we were afraid of the city districts. In our investigations among the farmers of the country, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific, we did not find a Republican who was going to cut the Republican ticket this year because of national issues. That was a most remarkable state of affairs.

"Some of them were going to vote with the Democrats on local tickets because of local questions or quarrels, but when it came to national politics the Republican farmers were all reported as highly contented. Prosperity was abroad in the land and they were not only getting good prices for their products, but the high prices for meat in the cities gave them better prices for their cattle.

"But in the cities it was different. There we found several causes for complaint. The coal strike, high prices for meat, etc., were blamed upon the Republicans. This uncertainty in the cities could not be overcome and as a consequence practically all of our losses are to be found there. We lost about 10 districts in cities which heretofore had been reliably Republican. Two were in San Francisco, represented by Mr. Loud and Mr. Kahn; one in Omaha, represented by Dave Mercer; one in Chicago, represented by Martin B. Madden; one in Detroit, represented by Corliss; three or four in New York, which were regarded as reliably Republican; one in Boston, the Eleventh, where Eugene Foss was the Republican candidate; one in Providence, represented by Melville Bull, and two in Baltimore, where the Republicans should have won despite the Democratic gerrymander.

"But all the cities were not so affected. Take Philadelphia and Pittsburgh for instance. The Republicans elected 19 straight Republicans. And Albany is another instance. There the Democrats made especial efforts to down George Southwick, but he is returned by an increased majority. Cleveland elected both Republican representatives, notwithstanding Tom Johnson and his circus tent, while Indianapolis and Cincinnati also kept true to the faith.

"In other sections of the country we met with a few surprises, but they were due solely to local causes. For instance, no one dreamed that that grand old man, William Connell of Scranton, would go down to defeat, but he did, while in the First New York district Representative Storm was defeated by eight votes as a result of some local quarrels. On the other hand, we were entertaining no hope of electing a Republican from the Thirteenth Ohio district to succeed Dr. Norton, who is serving his fourth term as a Democrat and is very popular. Likewise we carried the York, Pa., district, which was carved out to be Democratic, but the people, mostly farmers, thought otherwise.

WARMING THEIR WELCOME.

Norway Particularly Anxious to Furnish Comfort for Tourists.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Up to this time no country has thought of adding a "tourist department" to its other administrative branches, so that which the Norwegian government is about to start is worthy of attention.

To see that visitors to Norway are well treated will be the duty of the new department. For instance, many complaints have been received regarding incivility to foreigners on the part of native hotelkeepers, and in future such cases will be looked into carefully and everything possible done to insure a visitor's "finding his warmest welcome at an inn."

ALFONSO CONFRONTED BY CABINET CRISIS

Ministers Place Their Resignations in the Hands of Premier Sagasta.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

MADRID, Nov. 9.—As a result of a prolonged cabinet council, which was held to discuss the recent attacks made upon the government by leaders of the opposition, an official note, issued today, says the ministers are ready to place their portfolios at the disposal of Premier Sagasta, if this step is necessary, and that they have unanimously decided to give the premier full powers to act as he considers best in the interests of the country and his party.

Premier Sagasta is to have an audience with King Alfonso at noon tomorrow.

It is believed that a crisis and the reconstruction of the ministry are imminent.

CAN SEAT BADGER.

Congressman Tayler Believes Columbus Election Valid.

CANTON, O., Nov. 9.—Congressman R. W. Tayler of Lisbon, in Canton today expressed the belief that it would be futile to make a contest against the seating of Judge DeWitt C. Badger as representative of the Twelfth (Columbus) congressional district. Badger defeated Cyrus Huling at the election, but since it has been claimed that his votes are void under the Ohio constitution, because he was holding a commission as judge when elected.

Congressman Tayler, who is chairman of elections committee No. 1, said there was direct precedent for seating Judge Badger, regardless of the constitutional provisions, other judges elected while still holding commissions having been seated.

RAILROADS FACING CRISIS IN CAR AND ENGINE SHORTAGE

Condition Is Expected to Reach Point When Every Yard and House in Country Is Blockaded With Freight.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The Record-Herald today says: The railroads today are face to face with the greatest car and engine shortage in their history. It is estimated by conservative and expert traffic men that the demand for cars to move the traffic of the country is fully 50,000 in excess of the supply. As the weeks go by the shortage will undoubtedly increase rather than decrease, until it reaches a point where every freight yard and every freight house in the country is blocked with traffic awaiting transportation facilities.

So bad has the situation become that a sudden period of cold weather would almost paralyze the transportation facilities of the entire country. Realizing the danger of this, traffic and operating men are using almost super-human efforts to relieve the situation. The facts with respect to the transportation facilities of the country and the amount of traffic of every description and class that is being offered to the public carriers are startling in their significance, for the traffic of the country mirrors a prosperity that is unprecedented.

Figures Run Into Billions.

The statistics regarding the movement of freight during the last two years are almost inconceivable. When the average man is told that during 1901 the railroads of the country transported a total of 1,000,000,000 tons of freight, for which they received more than $1,000,000,000, and that they carried more than 600,000,000 passengers, for which they received more than $360,000,000, he begins to realise that the United States is now the most prosperous country in the world. These figures, large as they are, will be greatly exceeded for 1902.

The manufacturing interests which supply equipment used by railroads have been wholly unable to keep pace with the growing demands made upon them. In nearly every case these concerns have in the last two years increased their plants and forces and have kept them going night and day in the vain effort to supply the demand for cars and power.

Reports received from locomotive and car works throughout the country show that there are sufficient orders now on hand to keep them running day and night for the next six months. The railroads today stand ready to order many thousands of freight cars and hundreds of engines, but their orders cannot be placed for delivery inside of a year.

Density of Freight.

The growth of transportation in the last six years is strikingly shown in the accompanying table, giving the number of miles operated the ton or freight mileage and the freight density, which is the number of tons hauled per mile of road:

Year.	Miles.	Ton-miles.	Freight Density.
1896	177,830	68,677,276,962	386,286
1899	197,976	70,102,985,125	361,297
1901	194,262	81,210,154,523	404,894
1902	170,607	84,413,437,180	464,781
1903	178,981	90,022,057,290	502,873
1904	176,221	82,219,500,438	466,572
1905	179,154	88,567,770,801	494,360
1906	180,801	95,885,853,624	519,019
1907	181,065	97,842,569,150	540,372
1908	184,117	114,500,172,191	622,246
1909	188,224	126,901,705,110	687,029
1900	191,455	141,182,240,413	737,712
1901	194,455	148,969,305,892	799,964

The Added Equipment

The provision in added equipment made to take care of this increase since 1894 is shown by the following figures:

Year.	Locomotives.	Freight Cars.
1894	26,594	1,228,781
1895	28,610	1,230,708
1896	26,328	1,245,640
1897	26,419	1,234,702
1898	26,748	1,284,807
1899	27,345	1,328,084
1900	28,068	1,350,288
1901	29,729	1,400,472

The conclusion of the whole matter seems to be that the country is affected by a prosperity which no man could foretell and that the railroad managements have been exceedingly bold and energetic in dealing with the transportation problem which this prosperity has presented to them.

COLOMBIAN GUNBOATS ARE SEEKING BATTLE

Bogota and Chucuito Sail Out to Meet Revolutionary Fleet.

PANAMA, COLOMBIA, Nov. 9.—The Colombian government gunboats Bogota and Chucuito left here yesterday on a trip along the coast in search of the revolutionary fleet.

SAN JOSE, COSTA RICA, Nov. 9.—The reason why Gen. Vargas-Santos, military director of the Colombian revolution, did not go to Panama to attend the conference arranged to take place today on board the United States battleship Wisconsin in Panama harbor between representatives of the Colombian government and of the revolutionists is because the government of Colombia, according to advices received here, intended to limit the subject of the conference to the acceptance of the decree of amnesty recently promulgated by the president of Colombia, Senor Marroquin.

Gen. Vargas-Santos declares he is willing to make peace providing that the Colombian government will recognize the civil and political rights of which the Liberal party has been deprived for the last 17 years, but not otherwise.

MANUFACTURERS BUY TRACT OF COAL LAND

Shortage of Gas Drives Them to Seek Elsewhere for Cheap Fuel.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

RICHMOND, IND., Nov. 9.—It was announced today that a number of the leading manufacturers in Central and East Indiana towns have formed a co-operative coal company under the name of the Manufacturers' Fuel Company.

The object is to mine their own coal, a move made necessary by the gradual failure of the natural gas and the uncertainty of the coal market.

The company already has contracts for 3,000 acres of coal land in Sullivan county, and intends to begin operations on this, acquiring more as opportunity offers.

SAFE BLOWERS WORK BOLDLY IN ALLEGHENY

Johnston and James Steele, with Assistant Superintendent of Police John Glenn, went to the office to investigate. They learned the description of the two men who visited the office Saturday afternoon to look at the directory, and are satisfied they know the men implicated in the robbery.

They said they had been stopping in Bedford avenue in this city. With Detectives Albert Swinehart, Edward Kernelly and Detective Johnston of Allegheny they visited the house, but learned they were mistaken.

Supt. Henry Muth of the Allegheny police department is angry and determined that the thieves, safe blowers and burglars must leave the city limits. This makes the second daring robbery that has taken place in Allegheny during the last month. Some $2,000 has been taken and about $7,000 worth of property has been destroyed by the explosives.

The cards, said Dr. Hillis, were distributed all over London, and several Americans abroad at the time received a similar gratifying "permission."

COAL DEALERS ENTER PHILANTHROPIC POOL

Plan to Avert Coal Famine by Seeing That Everyone Is Supplied.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 9.

In view of the increasingly cold weather predicted for the next few days, coal dealers and coal operators are perfecting plans to eliminate, so far as possible, the admitted danger of a serious coal famine in this city.

From one of the large retail coal dealers in the city, who is one of the high officers of the association, it was learned today that if it becomes necessary the dealers will form a pool, consider all the coal they have or are able to obtain, as a whole, and put it out where it is most needed.

First to be supplied will be the poor, why buy coal by the pail. Depots will be established to supply their needs, while householders who ordinarily buy coal by the ton would be limited to half-ton orders at a time.

GOV. DOLE REMOVES ANOTHER OFFICIAL

Superintendent of Public Works of Honolulu is Accused of Embezzlement.

HONOLULU, Nov. 1, via San Francisco, Nov. 9.—James H. Boyd, local superintendent of public works, has been suspended from office by Gov. Dole and arrested on a warrant, charged with the embezzlement of $1,600 of public funds.

Boyd was in San Francisco when his chief clerk, B. H. Wright, was arrested on a charge of embezzlements aggregating more than $8,000, when Treasurer Wright was accused of absconding with $18,000 of public money, and Auditor Austin was suspended under grave charges.

Boyd returned here October 22. He declared he would resume his office, and Gov. Dole placed a guard to keep Boyd out. When Boyd attempted to enter his office there was a violent struggle.

Boyd finally gave up, asking the courts for a writ of mandamus to compel the governor to allow him to resume charge of the office, asserting that the governor has no power to suspend him without the consent of the senate.

GEN. WOOD RETURNS.

He Says He Gathered Much Useful Knowledge of European Armies.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Gen. Leonard Wood, who went with Gens. Corbin and Young to represent this country at the German war maneuvers, arrived today on the steamship St. Louis.

"I remained after Gens. Corbin and Young," said Gen. Wood, "in order to visit Scotland with my family. The generals and myself were treated very kindly, both in Germany and in England. We were granted every facility for seeing the workings of the military systems and have seen many things which were not only interesting and instructive, but will be useful if adopted in this country."

Gen. Wood was asked whether he is in favor of establishing the canteen in the army. He replied:

"My canteen reports are on file. Gen. Funston has come out strong for the canteen, did he not? I think we are all of one opinion on that subject." Gen. Wood went direct to Washington.

Prince Henry of Pless, who comes to represent the German emperor at the dedication of the New York chamber of commerce on Tuesday, was also a passenger on the St. Louis.

RABBI SCORES ROUMANIAN NOTE

Philadelphia Clergyman Criticises State Paper of Secretary Hay.

SEES SELFISH MOTIVE

Says Document Invited Failure for the United States and Disappointment for the Jews—Why the Note Was Disregarded.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf, D. D., of the Reform Congregation Keneseth-Israel, one of the best known Hebrew clergymen in the east, today delivered a sermon entitled "Secretary Hay and the Roumanian Jew," in which he criticised the note sent by the secretary to the European powers on the question of the Roumanian Jews. Dr. Krauskopf said three months have passed since the note was issued and the results that were anticipated have not yet come to pass.

Continuing he said in part: "My want of faith in the success of the laudable and well-intended effort on the part of our honored secretary was based on the note itself. There are sentences in that note that fill me with pride as an American citizen, that sound to me like messages from the hallowed tombs of those heroes and martyrs who fled the tyranny and persecution of the old world to find home and liberty in the new. This part I call the humanitarian."

"But there is another part, and by far the largest part, which I call the self-protective, which I feit from the outstart impaired the good of the first, and invited failure for the United States and disappointment for the Roumanian Jews.

"The secretary," Dr. Krauskopf said, "would have written the name of the United States immortal on the moral history of mankind had he spoken to the Jewish refugees, 'Come, ye heavy laden and ye sorely tried, be at rest.' As you come hither so have our pilgrim fathers come, and so have come thousands of others."

Continuing the doctor said: "And Secretary Hay might have written the name of the United States larger still upon the moral history of human kind, had he turned to Christian Roumania and said: 'We, the American people, respectfully but earnestly entreat you to put an end to these religious persecutions that shame even the dark ages.'

"Had these words been spoken," he said, "it would have shown our interest to be one of humanity and not of self.

"It is the self-protective spirit of the Hay note that impairs its effectiveness. It is this that explains why little or no notice has been taken of it by the governments concerned."

DIES IN PULPIT.

Aged Ohio Divine Stricken While Preaching His Second Sermon of the Day.

NEW RICHMOND, O., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—While preaching at the Methodist church here this evening the Rev. W. R. Runyan, D. D., aged 65, presiding elder of the Georgetown district, was suddenly stricken with heart disease and died almost instantly.

Shortly after Mr. Runyan had begun his sermon, the second of the day at the same church, he faltered and fell at the foot of the pulpit.

A number of persons rushed to the elder's assistance, but almost before they reached him life was extinct.

NATURE'S OWN CURE.

Hyomei Cures Catarrh Without Dangerous Drugging of the Stomach.

Not until Hyomei was discovered has it been possible to truthfully say that a remedy for catarrh was known.

This remedy is breathed through the Hyomei inhaler for a few minutes four times a day, and during that time every particle of air taken into the air passages and lungs is impregnated with the germ killing and health giving Hyomei. It is the only treatment that cures catarrh.

Stomach drugging often causes disordered digestion or brings on some other diseases and never makes a permanent cure of catarrh. Hyomei not only kills the germs in the throat and nose but penetrates to the minutest air cells in the lungs and enters the blood with the oxygen, killing the germs in the blood. It frees the mucous membrans from poisonous microbes and gives perfect health.

A complete outfit costs but $1.00 and includes an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei for more than a month's treatment.

The leading druggists of this city have so much faith in the merit of Hyomei that they agree to return the money to any purchaser who may be disatisfied.

ROBBING PETER TO PAY PAUL

Elevation of Bridges at Expense of Wharfage So Characterized.

BIG LAWSUITS IN SIGHT

Property on Duquesne Way Was Transferred to the City for a Special Purpose and Cannot Be Used for Bridge Viaducts.

The proposed scheme for elevating the Allegheny bridges is confronted by another serious obstacle. Any attempt toward the consummation of the plan for building viaducts, to reach the high plane of the structures, would result in a series of lawsuits which would be likely to instantly check any further agitation of the high bridge advocates.

There are several precedents which would make the grabbing of property on the wharf to accommodate the entrances of the bridges a great folly. The city, since the earliest times, has guarded the river front with the utmost care against the avarice of corporations, and in the future proposes to maintain its good record.

The original deeds for the property on Duquesne way gave the owners a free title to all the land to the point of low water mark on the banks of the Allegheny river. Later, it was transferred to the city for highway and wharfage purposes, and it is maintained that it can be appropriated for no other use.

Wharf Rights Are Sacred.

Special legislation in councils was necessary before the plot at the Pittsburgh exposition could be given up, the municipal corporation holding the land in the same stead as that donated by Mrs. Schenley for park purposes.

"The whole scheme for the elevating of the bridges seems very foolish," said J. B. Beyer, proprietor of the Hotel Boyer at Seventh street and Duquesne way, last night. "To raise the streets below Penn avenue would place a burden on the city that could not be lifted in years, and as for the building of viaducts, the idea is absurd. A few years ago the city was incensed over the alleged seizure of the Seventh street wharf for the building of a coal hoist, and stern measures were taken to reimburse the city for the industry maintained there. Before that time the impression seemed to be that the wharf was anybody's property, but it was soon discovered to be sacred ground.

Property-Owners Object.

"To build bridge approaches in such manner as to obstruct the wharf would not be tolerated. Slackwater navigation of the Allegheny would be a good thing—an improvement we would hail with satisfaction—but what good would that do the city if our wharves should be taken away just at the moment when we should need them more than ever before. The property owners would certainly be heard from, and would assert the rights of the original grants which gave them ownership clear to the low water mark.

"I cannot see why the boatmen could not ply the rivers as they have always done. To lower the stacks of a steamboat is a simple and easy matter. If they want larger and heavier boats it is not necessary to build them so much higher in the air.

"I appreciate the interests of the rivermen. I wish them long life and prosperity. I should like to see them succeed and want them to get their success, not from high water alone, but from the good sense that would be shown by catering to the continuation of good business in Pittsburgh, their principal port and the center of their wealth. I would like to see them have good wharves all along the Allegheny, and would it not be better to keep the bridges where they are than to have no wharf? The robbing of Peter to pay Paul is not a good proposition. In the end Peter, Paul and the robber are sure to be bankrupted."

FLOCK TO INDIANA.

Operators Find Great Promise in Oil Fields of That State—Machinery Hard to Get.

RICHMOND, IND., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—It is now claimed that the Indiana oil field is becoming the center of attraction for oil operators from all over the country, and that the future of the field is much more promising than that of Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania or Texas.

This condition is causing the operators to flock to the state and they are getting all the territory they can.

There is more work than ever in the Indiana field, and so many wells are being drilled that it is difficult to get enough new or sufficient machinery for the work.

NEW $1,000,000 WORKS READY TO OPERATE

Oil City Plant of Oil Well Supply Company Will Employ 2,000 Men.

The Oil Well Supply Company of Pittsburgh will soon have its new $1,000,000 plant at Oil City, or the suburb sometimes known as Siverly, in operation. The plan will employ, running full, about 2,000 men, a large addition to the forces of two old plants at Oil City, which the company is abandoning for the new.

The equipment from one of the older plants has already been installed in the new and that of the other will be in a few days. The company is rushed with business and the increased facilities of the new works are available none too soon.

For the site of the new works, the company purchased 45 acres of ground and may at any time make extension to the plant. At the formation of the National Tube Company, the Elba iron works of the Oil Well Supply Company in Second avenue were taken over and now the company has the big end of its operations concentrated in the one plant at Oil City.

"The tendency toward consolidation is shown by the big steelmasters in England, as well as by those in America," said George C. Blackwell of Liverpool, England, at the Hotel Schenley. "The large plant of Thomas Firth in Liverpool was recently merged with that of the John Brown & Co., and reports I have just received from abroad indicate that other big concerns will join hands. The shipbuilding industries also are merging their stock." Mr. Blackwell is the senior member of the firm of George C. Blackwell & Sons, manufacturers of nickel alloys. He is in Pittsburgh, accompanied by his wife and daughter, to consult with Harbison & Walker, his local representatives.

Color Sergt. Ferdinand Wimeyer, formerly of the Fifth cavalry, who had served 33 years in the United States army in this country, Cuba and the Philippines, passed through the city to Philadelphia last night. He received his discharge from the service in San Francisco on November 2, and was at once placed on the retired list. During his long term of service in the army he served with the Second, Fifth and Seventh cavalry regiments. He was in uniform and looked to be about 55 years of age.

Pittsburgh friends of John R. Gemmill, who early in the year was made manager of the local office of the Etna Indemnity Company, have received word that he is greatly pleased with his new position of the same kind with the same company at Denver, Col., and that the climate is agreeing with him well. Mr. Gemmill has Colorado and several other state in his new territory, including Wyoming and Utah.

TWO SHOT BY OFFICERS.

William Stanton Dropped Fugitive With Bullet in Thigh—Pole Shot in Lawrenceville.

William Stanton, quarantine officer, shot John Scott, colored, who resisted arrest at Wylie avenue and Elm street last night, shortly after 7 o'clock. The bullet entered the right thigh and was removed by Dr. A. E. McCandless at No. 2 police station. The wound was not serious.

Scott and his wife, Annie, were having an altercation in the street. Scott struck her. The angry woman called to Officer Stanton to arrest him. The officer took Scott and started for the patrol box. At Wylie avenue and Elm street Scott broke away from the officer and started to run down Wylie avenue. Officer Stanton shot at him four times.

Julius Persesko, a Russian, 19 years old, was shot in the arm yesterday morning by Officer F. H. McLaughlin in Penn avenue, near Twenty-ninth street. The officer had two Poles under arrest and Persesko interfered, and drawing a knife went at the officer.

WROTE TO MASCAGNI

Mariano Cancelliere Told Maestro of Managers' Actions While in Pittsburgh.

Mariano Cancelliere, the Italian banker and editor, was not obliged to go to Boston yesterday to help Mascagni, the composer, for th maestro, who was arrested by his managers on the charge of owing $3,000 on contract, had been released on bail, even before Mr. Cancelliere's offer of assistance reached him.

However, Mr. Cancelliere wrote a letter to Mascagni, in which he renewed his offers of aid, and told of the actions of the composer's managers while the operatic company was here. Mr. Cancelliere thinks that his testimony on the business dealings of the managers in Pittsburgh can be of help to Mascagni. The engagement had hardly begun, yet the managers, he says, were already hard up, trying to borrow money from him and borrowing some from Mascagni.

THIRTY-SIX YEARS IN PITTSBURGH

Y. M. C. A. Celebrated Anniversary in First Presbyterian Church.

ADDRESS BY DR. SCOVEL

Annual Report Showed That the Membership in Pittsburgh Is Far Ahead of That in Other Large Cities—Need Buildings.

The 36th anniversary of the Young Men's Christian association of Pittsburgh was celebrated in the First Presbyterian church last night. The large church was filled to overflowing with an audience interested in the local organization's work. The Rev. Sylvester F. Scovel of Wooster university delivered the annual address. Vice President William T. Lyon read the annual report of the association, which contained encouraging facts.

The exercises began with an anthem by the church choir, followed by a hymn in which the audience joined. The Rev.

The Rev. Dr. Sylvester F. Scovel.

David McAllister read scripture and offered prayer. Then the annual report was read.

In the annual report a resume of the meaning of the Young Men's Christian association was given and attention called to the work of the officers. It was stated that at the building at Penn avenue and Seventh street may be seen gathered at any hour of the day or evening scores of young men in the gymnasium under the direction of a skillful tutor. The reading room is crowded all day and the educational classes are so crowded that it is impossible to provide for all who apply. The report says the social gatherings in the reception room and parlor have become a successful feature and the religious meetings held regularly at stated times are always largely attended.

Dr. Reid Was Praised.

The death of the Rev. William J. Reid was touched upon. The report said that he had been a lifelong friend of the association and had conducted the meeting for the study of the Sabbath school lessons for 25 years. His son, the Rev. William J. Reid, Jr., succeeds him as instructor of this meeting.

The report showed that at the anniversary last year it was reported that the largest year of the association had just been passed. Attention was called at the time to the fact that there was pressing need for a new building for the association. Since then the property immediately adjoining had been purchased. The rapid growth of the association during the past year was spoken of and it was stated that there is a pressing need for building branches at Lawrenceville, East Liberty and the South Side.

The report showed that the membership of the association was 2,700, having grown since the first full year of the occupancy of the building in 1885 from 1,135, an increase of 137 per cent.

Pittsburgh Stands Fourth.

It was shown that compared with nine cities of an average population of 780,000, whose associations have an average membership of 1,932, the association in Pittsburgh is much larger in membership. There are but three cities with a larger membership than Pittsburgh—Chicago, with 4,731; Boston, with 3,453, and Cleveland, with 3,050. There are 25 cities in the country whose population is smaller than Pittsburgh's, but whose association are provided with better buildings. All of this shows that the association in this city, while much in advance of others in point of membership, is much behind in facilities.

The statistics showed that 806 new members have been admitted during the past year. The average age was 23. Religious meetings of all kinds numbered 580, with an average attendance of 17,126. During the 315 week days the building was open the average attendance was 520, with an aggregate attendance of 188,180.

The Rev. Scovel was introduced by Mr. Lyon as a former pastor of the First church. In his address Dr. Scovel adhered closely to the cause of young men, dwelling at length on the great importance of their spiritual and moral training, as they were, he said, the force of future, on whom the burdens of the world devolve." He said in part:

Young Men Needed.

"Many are assaulted by temptation, but, regardless of the many that are dragged down into debauchery and vice, there are hundreds more to take their place and fall into the same avenues. Gambling in the city besmirches the city youth, and the horse race at the country fair tells on the country boys."

In conclusion Dr. Scovel denounced the cry of army generals to restore the canteen, as "immodern and iniquitious."

Following the address donations were received to help make up the deficit of $9,000, necessary in concluding the work, in addition to membership fees.

A DESERTED WOMAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Love for Her Betrayer Shown in the Face of Death.

A young woman who refused to divulge her name on Saturday night attempted to commit suicide in her room at No. 699 Rebecca avenue, Wilkinsburg, because the man who had betrayed her married another. She is in a critical condition, and was removed to the county home at Woodville.

She was found yesterday morning suffering from the effects of laudanum. Physicians, after working with the apparently dying woman for several hours, restored her to consciousness. She had destroyed every letter and article that might lead to revealing her identity. She said that the man who had promised to protect her had married recently, and through her love for him she desired to die with her secret rather than inflict trouble on his wife.

The woman was about 23 years of age and remarkably beautiful. She is a pronounced brunette and an air or refinement indicates that she belongs to a good family. She said her home was in Waynesburg, but later denied and said that Altoona was her native town.

Egan Search Continues.

KALISPEL, MONT., Nov. 9.—There have been no new developments in the Egan search, notwithstanding the reward of $1,000 has attracted more men into the district. Another party left Columbia Falls this morning for Hungry Horse creek, and will be out several days. It is now almost impossible to get through the country except on snowshoes.

Church Dedication Postponed.

The dedication of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church at McKeesport, which was to have taken place yesterday, was postponed. The corner stone of the St. Nicholas Greek Catholic church of McKeesport was laid yesterday. A short address was made by the Rev. Father John Zato.

VIRILE CHAMPION OF GREAT NATION

Description of Roosevelt by French Translators of "The Strenuous Life."

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PARIS, Nov. 9.—A translation into French of President Roosevelt's book, "The Strenuous Life," which appeared here last week under the title of "La Vie Intense," has attracted widespread interest. The translation is by Princess Ferdinand de Faucigny-Lucinge and Jean Izoulet, who declare that their work has the authorization of Mr. Roosevelt.

The preface of the translation pays a glowing tribute to the United States, and compares President Roosevelt's book to James Bryce's, "The American Commonwealth," saying the latter gives the views of the outside observer while "The Strenuous Life" gives the views of the observer on the inside.

President Roosevelt is described as "the virile champion of a nation which has become powerful in deciding the destinies of the world." The high standards which President Roosevelt has introduced into public life in America are dwelt upon.

WILL ABANDON WALKER WORKS

American Bridge Co. Will Move Big Plant from Hays Station.

SOLD SITE FOR $112,000

Removal Will Be Delayed Till the $2,500,000 Works at Economy Are Ready for Operation, Probably a Year.

The American Bridge Company will abandon its big new modern works at Hays station, known as the Walker works, in connection with its great enterprise of a concentrated and enlarged works near Economy, which is to take all the Pittsburgh plants there. The Walker works were built by the Shiffler Bridge Company a short time before the formation of the American Bridge Company. The plant, named after the president of the Shiffler company, covers, with its yards, a tract of over nine acres and has capacity for fabricating over 2,000 tons of structural material a month, a capacity as high as any of the larger works of Pittsburgh.

The ground of the Walker plant has been sold for $112,000, but will not be vacated for a year or more, or till the big new works at Economy are completed and ready for the removal of the Walker works. Then the entire plant will be taken to Economy. The purchasers of the ground at Homestead are a syndicate of local capitalists, having a great new industrial enterprise for Homestead when the site shall be vacated.

Town Will Be Ambridge.

The American Bridge Company, with its load of big contracts, has been able to facilitate, as intended, the work of erecting the big new $2,500,000 works going up at the outskirts of Economy, and which will mean the creation of a large new industrial community, to be known as Ambridge. The name is created, as is apparent, from an abbreviation of the name of the company, "Am. Bridge." Work is well along, however, and in a short time the additional enterprises of the company, in connection with the creation of the new town will be under way. The engineers have completed plans for the big new office building, which will be erected for the office men of the bridge company, including its big engineering force. This structure will be large enough to accommodate 600 people or more. Along with it there will be erected at Ambridge a modern hotel, hospital and other general buildings and a town will spring up which will be the home of thousands of men employed in the big works.

Will Be Immense Plant.

The Pennsylvania lines west has already created the station of Ambridge, and it is a step for Ft. Wayne trains.

With the works completed at Ambridge there will be facilities for fabricating 25,000 tons of structural material monthly, over twice as much as the Pittsburgh plants, to be abandoned, combined. There will also be a great shipyard, now about completed, for the making of steel hulls and barges. The facilities will also, from the start, be more than double those of the great Pencoyd works near Philadelphia.

The Schultz works in McKees Rocks and the Shiffler, Pittsburgh and Keystone works in Pittsburgh will be abandoned and their equipment moved to Ambridge. The new office building of the company in Fifty-first street will also be vacated.

In the course of a month or so, the bridge company will have its new shops, especially designed for the working of such heavy I-beams, as are required for the two new bridges of the Wabash over the Monongahela and Ohio rivers. All other material for this bridge work is ready to be delivered.

BUTCHER DRIVERS AND CELLAR MEN JOIN

Are to Go on Sympathetic Strike With the Butchers Today.

Numbers of the butchers on strike are to be swelled this morning by sympathetic movements of the butcher drivers, cellar men and more of the meat cutters. Arrangements for this were made at a meeting of the striking butchers, which opened in Moorhead hall yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. Calvin Wyatt, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, who has charge of the strike, as the representative of the national officers of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, announced that the drivers were well represented at the meeting and that they and the cellar men will be on strike this morning against all firms not recognizing the butchers' union.

The action will add about 250 men to the strike forces. The plan for sympathetic action by the building trades. In the case of the Pittsburgh Provision Company, which is erecting a new plant on Herrs Island, was necessarily dropped, because the building trades organizations are not in control of the work. The meeting yesterday voted to continue the strike till the organization is recognized. About eight concerns have agreed to the scale and the strike continues against about 10 others.

As soon as a charter can be secured the drivers who join the strike this morning will form a local of the Team Drivers' International union. The Pittsburgh carriage drivers, who are in the same general organization as the drivers, met last night at Moorhead's hall and discussed the proposed new working agreement which a committee had drafted during the week. Definite action was postponed.

OBJECTS TO LANDSMEN.

Admiral Bradford Says Line Officers Should Superintend Construction of Battleships.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.—In his annual report, made public today, Admiral Bradford, chief of the bureau of equipment and repair of the navy department, takes occasion to renew his protest against the action of the department in the substituting a naval constructor for a line officer at shipbuilding works.

A naval constructor, he says, is a non-sea-going officer. Inquiries as to the custom of the merchant marine in this matter, the report says, shows that the construction of merchant ships generally is supervised by the most experienced master mariner and chief engineer in the employ of the owner.

It is an anomaly to build a ship and prepare her for sea under the supervision of a landsman.

As a worm-destroyer, Dr. D. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge is unequaled, and to the weak and sickly, it is wonderfully helpful as a strength-giver.

GOAT PROVES TO BE BAD WITNESS

Paid More Attention to Poster Girl Than Questions of Alderman Walsh.

BRAVERY OF THE POLICE

Capture of "Billy" Was a Work of Art, but the Prisoner Ate the Warrant in Full View of the Court.

"Whose am I, or What do I Care?" might well be the name of a comedy that was enacted in the West End Saturday, in which Mary and her little lamb were outdone and the "Charge of the Light Brigade" received a setback from which it may never recover. A billy-goat was present in an alderman's court as chief witness. The play began with the arrest of one man, charged with stealing him, and the capture of the goat in a back yard forms the basis of the action in the piece. In court the goat placidly chewed the police warrant for which his owner had paid $2 50, and didn't seem to care whether court kept or not.

The whole trouble arose over the ownership of the goat. Joseph Corcha of West Carson street claimed that his goat was stolen from his rear yard and alleged that the same goat was found in the yard of James Crowe in Independence street. Saturday morning Corcha entered suit against Crowe for larceny before Alderman William F. Walsh. Constable James F. Carey arrested Crowe, who promptly gave bail to the amount of $300, for hearing. Crowe, however, refused to turn over the goat to Alderman Walsh pending settlement.

Police Aid Summoned.

The goat in question is a venerable graybeard and a life-long resident of the West End. He is a favorite with the children in the neighborhood, and they never miss a chance to feed him delicacies, such as "cans a le tomat," "patie de bill poster" and "old iron anglaise." His goatship was so well-fed, his owner claimed, and properly, too, that he did not run away.

It was thought necessary to have Mr. Goat in court at the hearing, and as Crowe would not produce him, Gov. Stone was wired to call out the regulars. It being Saturday, the governor was not working, and the troops could not be had. Finally, it was thought that the brave Pittsburgh police might stand the test. Accordingly, a squad that had been hibernating was organized and equipped. With flaming shields and upraised clubs they began their march on the goat, and found him calmly eating a rake in Crowe's yard.

"Halt!" cried the sergeant, Billy McCurry, in Stonewall Jackson tones. The ranks stood fast.

"Is Michael McGuirk in line?"

"He is."

Battle Raged Fiercely.

"Then let the battle proceed, but remember, Mike, no violence."

The men formed a circle around the goat and tried to close in on him. The goat would pick a favorite, and "bang" went his horns against the shins of a policeman. By the time the officer had recovered the goat would be over in a corner, eating leaves from a weeping willow tree. The squad tired of this formation and tried the "flying wedge," an obsolete football play, but the goat broke the wedge. Then one man, who used to lasso jack rabbits out in Kansas, had an idea. A rope was procured and a lariat made. The officer threw the rope in the air and the goat sat down in the loop and tried to digest the rope. The snare had succeeded.

"On to headquarters!" commanded the sergeant, and the 50 men marched the captive down the street, while the juvenile audience whistled "Won't you come home, Bill Bailey?"

"Billy" meaning the goat, not McCurry, was corraled in Alderman Walsh's back yard and had nothing to eat all afternoon but a piece of board fence with nails in it.

Billy Ate the Warrant.

Consequently, he looked rather glum as he was led in to the court room. Small wonder that he seized the warrant between his jaws, when no one was looking, and began doing business with it.

Some fun was expected at the hearing and a goodly crowd was present. But it proved rather tame compared to the matinee. With the wisdom of a second Daniel, Alderman Billy Walsh decided to let the goat pick its owner and decide the case. After mature consideration, "Billy" picked a red and green calendar from the wall, and the cherished ornament of the court room disappeared.

The other evidence given by "Billy" was very circumstantial, consisting of alternate wistful looks at a poster picture of Edna Wallace Hopper and a red bandana handkerchief that peeped from Corcha's pocket.

The other testimony was taken and Corcha's handkerchief proved his ownership, so Alderman Walsh decided that it was his goat, but discharged Crowe.

As he was led out "Billy" looked wistfully at Edna and the alderman tore off the poster and fed it to the graybeard, who marched down the street feasting on Edna's plump shoulders.

BRIDGE SUICIDE WAS NOT JOSEPH ADAMS

But Man Who Announced He Would Drown Himself Is Missing.

The man who jumped off the Sixteenth street bridge on Saturday, and whose body was taken from the river a few minutes afterwards and removed to the morgue, has not yet been identified. Several persons called at the morgue yesterday, supposing the body was that of Joseph B. Adams, a bridge worker, who boarded at No. 115 Enterprise street. The body was not Adams', but his fate is a mystery now.

By his trick of ready letter writing, Adams made his former sweetheart, Miss Minnie Huebner, feel pretty badly over his supposed death. Shortly after the body of the unidentified suicide had been found, a Pittsburgh newspaper received a letter, purporting to come from Joseph B. Adams. The writer said he was tired of life, bade good-by to everybody and said that his body would be found in the river. He asked that "Mr. S. R." of No. 215 Dithridge street be notified. No person of those initials lives at that number, but Miss Huebner lives there, and as soon as she was informed of the letter yesterday morning, she went to the morgue and was relieved to find that it was not Adams' corpse.

Miss Huebner said that she had forbidden Adams to call and she supposed that he wrote the letter. Whether he has committed suicide or not, she does not know. One hour after the body of the unidentified man was found a man, who said he was Adams, telephoned to the Dithridge street house, but was not permitted to talk to Miss Huebner. It happened by a strange coincidence that Adams wrote his letter only a short time before a man committed suicide in the manner which Adams threatened to adopt. Adams left his boarding house on Saturday evening, saying he would never be heard from again.

IRISH PREPARE FOR THEIR BIG MEETING

Parliamentary Leaders Will Speak in Old City Hall Tomorrow Night.

The central branch of the United Irish league met last night at the office of Alderman John Downey on Grant street and materially advanced the arrangements for the big meeting in Old City hall tomorrow night. Various committees reported in a manner indicating that this will be the greatest meeting for Ireland's cause that has been held in Pittsburgh for years.

James J. Flannery was selected as the presiding officer for the meeting tomorrow night, in addition to the Hon. Michael Davitt and the Hon. John Dillon, the Rev. Father John Price of St. James' church, West End, will make an address.

P. A. Ricards, T. P. Kelly, J. F. O'Toole, Coleman Connolly and E. F. Duffy were appointed a press committee and the Rev. John Price, the Rev. Joseph Tonner, J. F. O'Neil, E. F. Duffy, Coleman Connolly and J. O'Connor Campbell, Jr., a reception committee. The latter committee will meet the visitors at the train tomorrow afternoon and take them to the Hotel Duquesne. In the evening they will be escorted to Old City hall by the Second Brigade band. Seats for the meeting are now on sale at Mellor's music store.

EXPLOSION KILLS TWO MEN.

Pumping Station Boiler Blows up in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Two men were killed and one of the pumping stations of the city's water supply system in Queensboro totally destroyed today by the explosion of one of the boilers which furnished power for the pumps. Those killed were William Dihoy, the engineer of the plant, and James Nelson, the fireman.

The building was ripped to pieces. Bricks from it flew a distance of 1,000 feet or more, while the boiler, which exploded, was hurled 200 feet from its bed. Scaling of the boiler is supposed to have caused the explosion.

ORGANIZING TO JOIN A STRIKE

Railway and Commercial Telegraphers Prepare to Demand Advance.

WOMEN BEING TAKEN IN

Knights of Key Will Ask for a Minimum Wage of $75 a Month. Over 200 Members in Local Union.

An organizing movement, which is likely to lead to a big strike within a year, among telegraph operators throughout the country, is being rapidly and energetically pushed in Pittsburgh, with the result that over 200 local knights of the key have become members of the Brotherhood of Commercial Telegraphers, Pittsburgh Branch No. 3, formed within the past month.

Thirty or 40 operators joined the body at an open meeting at No. 204 Fifth avenue Saturday night, among whom were 12 or 15 women. The women members are as deeply interested in the movement as the men, for it puts them on an equal footing with the male sex, and is to give them the same compensation. Under the present system a woman cannot obtain more than $60 a month, although she may be more efficient and have more experience than a male operator who gets $75 a month.

Will Benefit Women.

The majority of women operators do not get over $50 a month, and many get less. In Pittsburgh the best men operators do not receive more than $75 a month, and it is the purpose of the Brotherhood of Commercial Telegraphers, acting in conjunction with the Order of Railway Telegraphers, to demand a general minimum wage of $75 a month for both sexes.

The Order of Railway Operators is organizing the commercial telegraphers, and the two bodies will act in harmony. It was stated at the meeting Saturday night that the railway operators would demand an increase, with a $75 minimum, within the coming year, and that the commercial operators are expected to join in the movement. A strike is expected to follow this demand, but the operators are confident, if they can get the commercial telegraphers fully organized, they will win out.

The Pittsburgh union was formed October 12, and has a membership of between 200 and 250, of which three-fourths are Western Union operators. There are about 75 telegraphers in the union from the Postal company's offices, and W. F. Craig, Jr., a Postal operator, is president of the organization.

Movement Is Growing.

The other members are from brokers' offices, the Carnegie Steel Company's offices and branches of the Postal and Western Union. It is estimated that there are 700 operators in the city, and the organizers of the new movement are confident that they will have nearly all of this number with them within the next month or so.

NEW WESTINGHOUSE METHOD.

Pittsburgh Engineers Will Inspect It Wednesday Night.

Members of the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania are going to the works of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company at East Pittsburgh on Wednesday evening to inspect some of the heavy work that is in progress, and particularly the modern method of using portable machine tools on heavy castings.

Most of the members of the society will leave from Union station at 7:25 o'clock. At East Pittsburgh they will be the guests of the company, which will serve a collation.

Workmen Killed by Falling Stacks.

AKRON, O., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Joseph Smith, aged 28, and John Mender, 34, were instantly killed at the Columbia chemical works, at Barberton, Saturday. The men were working on a large iron smokestack. Smith was inside the stack and Mender outside. The stack fell to the ground and crushed both men.

NEWEST TEXTILES — BROAD AISLES — GOOD LIGHT — LIMITLESS VARIETY

WHEN a woman starts out to buy a new dress, then shopping assumes its most serious aspect. Our comprehensive line of regular goods at reasonable prices are nearly always reinforced by limited lots of fashionable fabrics, bought especially to go on sale at particularly fetching figures. Just so just now. Those who can not come to the store will do well to shop by mail.

REFUSED TO GIVE ANY INFORMATION

Department of Public Works Would Not Aid Council Committee.

CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT

Councilman Brown Says He Was Unable to Obtain Items from Director McCandless on Filtration—Councils Meet Today.

After persistent efforts the special committee appointed by councils has failed to secure estimates of the total cost of the filtration plant, owing to the refusal of the department of public works to furnish information asked for by the committee.

Councilman Thomas M. Brown, son of ex-Recorder A. M. Brown, is chairman of the committee. He made this statement yesterday concerning the matter:

"Director McCandless assured me that he would take pleasure in aiding the committee, as far as lay within his power, and he volunteered to give any information desired. Taking him at his word, I immediately asked him for one item, but never got it, nor has the committee received a single iota of information from the department of public works.

"We have been unable to do anything, as the department has in its possession all the plans and specifications. A number of prominent citizens have come to me and suggested some other mode of filtration, but I have stated that the sand system was recommended by the filtration commission and that the committee would not recommend any change, although I am convinced that a system of filtration could be provided out of the money in the bond fund."

Whole Thing Put Back.

The special committee appointed to take up the filtration matter was expected to decide, once for all, the question regarding the total cost of a plant and how much additional money would be required to build a plant, according to the plans and specifications that have been adopted. The failure of this committee to secure information, owing to the attitude assumed by the department of public works, puts the whole filtration matter back to the point from which the proceedings started.

It lays the responsibility for continued delay upon the present city administration, particularly upon the department of public works. The committee, of which Mr. Brown is chairman, will probably report to councils that it is unable to proceed further.

Common council meets tonight and the select branch this afternoon. No matter of special importance is expected to come up before the lower branch. In select council the report of the joint committee upon the question of the polytechnic school site, and the resolution approving the report, will be received from the other branch, asking for concurrence.

Lambie Favors Park Site.

The report adopts the site in Schenley park, near Murdock street entrance, and the resolution provides that the presidents of the two branches be empowered to obtain the consent of Mrs. Schenley for the use of the park land for the school.

John S. Lambie, president of select council, said yesterday that he was in favor of the park site and believed that it would be adopted by his branch, including the select members of the committee, whose names were not attached to the report. He said that he did not know when the railroad ordinances would come before councils and that he was at a loss to understand the delay of the corporations committee in holding a meeting to consider them.

President Lambie said that he took no stock in the proposition to increase the millage next year. "Taxes are too high now," he declared. "If Controller Larkin can keep them down, without making other interests of the city suffer, he deserves credit for it. I see no necessity for increasing the millage or issuing more bonds at present."

CAMPAIGN TO START AGAINST LADRONES

Military to Help Civil Power in Suppressing Bandits in Cavite Province.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

MANILA, Nov. 9.—The government is adopting vigorous measures to suppress ladronism in the provinces of Cavite, Rizal and Bulacan. A zone embracing these provinces and surrounding Manila, the scene of constant petty and sometimes serious disorder.

Several armed bands, some of them numbering 200 or 300 men, are operating in the described district and have committed various depredations. They find safe refuge in the mountains.

It is probable that the military authorities will request the garrisons to protect the more important towns, while the constabulary conduct the field operations.

Gen. Davis is co-operating with Gov. Taft. He has strengthened the garrisons in Rizal and is supporting and assisting the native constabulary now a field.

SPAIN PAID BANDITS, AMERICA SHOOTS THEM

Peace and Safety in Philippines Greater Than Ever Before, Says Wright.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

HONOLULU, Nov. 1, via San Francisco, Nov. 9.—The transport Sumner arrived here October 30 en route to San Francisco, with Gen. A. R. Chaffee and Vice Gov. Luke E. Wright of the Philippines, on board. In an interview Gov. Wright had the following to say of conditions in the Philippines and their future:

"There is a degree of peace and safety in the Philippines now that was never reached under the Spanish rule. The Spaniards used to pay the brigands to keep the peace, but we have refused to continue this system. After the passage of the Philippines bill last year, we established the insular constabulary and we now have 6,000 of these police. We find that they are the best men for the business and they have cleared the provinces of lawbreakers with great activity. The service is one which appeals to the natives, for the police are chosen from the tribes where they must serve."

IDENTIFIED NEST EGG BY BIRTH MARK

Remarkable Story Emanates from Peach Orchard Near Distillery at Clairton.

How a farmer found a valued nest egg, which had disappeared a year ago, was told in Clarion yesterday. The farmer placed the egg under one of his Wyandotte hens last November. The hen "smelled a rat," and inspecting the egg found it was of glass and contemptuously pecked it over the edge of the nest. Uncle Josh happened to poke his head through the door, and in the darkness of the early morning he saw the egg fall, but when he entered the coop the egg was not to be found.

John W. White of Blair, superintendent of the Pittsburgh Terminal Railroad and Coal Company, is putting in extensive brick works near Large's distillery, hard by Clarion. In moving some logs the workmen found a blacksnake and killed it. There was a big lump in the middle of the snake, and cutting the body open Mr. White found an egg. He thought at first it was an egg about to be laid by the snake, but upon inspecting it, he found it was a glass egg. He afterward learned it to be the egg belonging to the farmer, who identified it by a birth mark.

The farmer remembered that he had heard a rustling in the coop on that November morning, and he "opined, b'gosh," that "thet air critter" had lain in wait and swallowed the egg, when the hen threw it out of the nest.

There was some kind of fluid in the egg. Lindsay Beers, a druggist, roughly made a quantitative analysis of the fluid, which was obtained by breaking the egg. He decided it was composed of hydrochloric acid and peptones, which are the chief elements in the gastric juices in the stomachs of animals, and that the egg, made porous by the juices, had absorbed them from the snake's stomach.

The contents were sent to an eminent chemist of Pittsburgh, but must have been delayed on the way, for when asked about it last night he said he had not received the package.

Another chemist, when told of the missing package, called attention to the fact that the find was made in a peach orchard and hard by a distillery, two circumstances which, in his opinion, might account for the production.

BLIND AND DEAF GIRL TAKES DOMINICAN VOW

Novitiate Well Known as Contributor of Prose and Verse for Mutes.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Nov. 9.

Unique in church history, a notable ceremony took place today at St. Dominic's convent, Newark, N. J., when Miss Madeleine G. Wallace, who is both deaf and blind, took her vows as a sister of the Dominican order.

Miss Wallace was left sightless and without hearing after an attack of scarlet fever in her early childhood, and is believed to be the only woman in the world thus afflicted to be admitted to a Roman Catholic order.

Miss Wallace yesterday completed a year's novitiate in the convent. Her relatives and about 200 friends, including Catholic clergymen from New York and the south, who have long been interested in her welfare, were present.

The Dominican nuns are strictly cloistered and no one of them ever leaves the convent or comes into actual contact with the outside world after she has been formally received into the order. They make long and vigorous fasts and never eat meat. Their time is spent in the prayers of the perpetual adoration of the Blessed Sacrament and in the making of vestments for church services.

For a time Miss Wallace was a pupil at the School for the Blind, and there learned the simplest method of conversing by means of the letters of the alphabet pasted on a glove, which she wore and which the person talking to her would touch.

Unaided, beyond receiving instruction in the mechanical manner of writing so the blind could read, she started the work of inscribing her thoughts for those whose sight was lost, and by gradual development became a regular contributor to the magazines for the blind. Original poems and short stories she wrote, printing every letter slowly and carefully by hand, and each article represented the labor of many days.

Miss Wallace has translated many poems so that they can be read by the blind, and, though her cloister duties have to some extent interfered with this work, she expects to contribute much in the future to the literature for the blind.

TROOPS KEPT BUSY BY FRENCH STRIKERS

Many Clashes Occur in Mining Section, but No Great Damage Done.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The government is taking precautions to handle another outbreak on the part of the striking miners, in case the decision reached last night to continue the strike is followed by violence. Troops were active in the mining regions throughout today, but no serious disorders have been reported.

Following the decision of the miners' congress to continue the strike there were disorderly occurrences in Lens (Pas de Calais) last night. The cavalry charged repeatedly a crowd of 1,500 riotous miners and succeeded in preventing them from advancing. Considerable minor damage was done.

At Courrieres (Pas de Calais) houses of non-strikers were sacked and a number of coal wagons were burned.

A clash between strikers and gendarmes and cavalry is reported from Clermont ferrand (Puy de Dome); it was not attended with serious results.

From some mining centers it is reported that the miners are likely to return to work tomorrow in spite of the decision of the congress to the contrary.

GREAT THRONGS VISIT SCHENLEY

Loan Exhibit, 'Mum Show and Recital Draw Biggest Crowd of Year.

POPULAR FOUNDER'S DAY

Attendance Was a Surprise, As Weather Was Not Ideal—Pittsburghers Appreciate Art and Science of Floriculture.

Nature, art and music yesterday shared honors in the entertainment of the people of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania. In the Phipps conservatory the gorgeous chrysanthemums essayed the part that nature played and delighted the crowds that filled the big greenhouse throughout the day. The art galleries were not large enough to accommodate half the people, who went to see the loan exhibit, and the doors of the music hall were closed when the organ recital commenced. More than 50,000 persons were in Schenley park during the afternoon.

Yesterday was the real Founder's Day to the great mass of Pittsburgh's population, and the people who visited the institute to pay homage to Carnegie, as well as to enjoy the delightful things his philanthropy had provided.

It was not that quality of weather calculated to draw forth a large crowd, and the attendance was not looked for. Early in the morning the pilgrims to the park began to appear, and when the doors of the conservatory and the institute were opened hundreds were waiting for admittance.

Conservatories Crowded.

From 10 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the evening a steady stream of humanity filed through the long avenues of flowers.

A floral exhibit, novel in Pittsburgh, will be seen next Sunday, when a magnificent display of Chinese primroses will be placed in one of the exhibition houses. Some of the chrysanthemums are beginning to lose their glory, and by replacing them by primroses fresh from the propagating house, the exhibition will be continued for several weeks.

"I desire that all the credit for this fine exhibition shall go to my efficient foreman, John Jones," said Superintendent Falconer yesterday. "His intelligent work and the great care he has exercised in rearing the plants is responsible for the success we have had in growing the finest specimens of this majestic flower."

Art Galleries Popular.

In the point of the number of visitors no art gallery in the world equals the Carnegie loan exhibit. No less than 13,700 persons stood before the picture walls yesterday and admired the treasures of art arrayed there, the biggest crowd in history. The paintings were rivals in popularity, and before each canvas could be found a little group, eager in praising the merits of some particular artist's work.

Edwin H. Lemare began his season of free organ recitals, under the most encouraging auspices. Every seat in the music hall was filled on Saturday night and yesterday hundreds were unable to obtain seats.

At Highland Park.

The pleasant November weather yesterday was taken advantage of by thousands of people to visit Highland park. Many of the visitors were strangers. A big excursion came in over the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroad. The excursionists came from Mt. Jewett, Punxsutawney and intermediate points. All the excursionists went to the city parks, and after visiting the mum show and the art galleries in Schenley park, went to Highland.

The zoo was crowded during the entire afternoon. The pair of baby lions were a great attraction, and crowds surrounded their cage. Supt. Earnest Tretow received during the week the long looked-for sea lion from New York. It was at once put into the tank with the others, received about two months ago.

YOUNGSTER WITH A FLOBERT.

One Millvale Lad Shot Another Back of the Head.

Joseph, the 9-year-old son of Isaac McClaskey of Evergreen avenue, Millvale, was shot in the back of the head late yesterday afternoon by Emil Reiber, aged 7 years. McClaskey's wound is not serious. Reiber was carrying a flobert rifle and asked McClaskey for a cartridge. He slipped the cartridge into the gun, and as the McClaskey boy passed on, fired.

HORSE THIEVES ARE BUSY IN THE COUNTY

Several Liverymen in the Two Cities Numbered Among Their Victims.

Horse thieves are finding Western Pennsylvania a lucrative field for their trade. They have been operating extensively in this section recently, and several Pittsburgh and Allegheny liverymen are numbered among their victims.

The Merchants Transfer and Storage Company, in Allegheny, lost a valuable black horse and buggy a few days ago. It was stolen by an individual who answers the description of a man who got away with a fine bay horse and runabout belonging to Burns & Giltinan, liverymen in Grant street, this city.

On October 29 a man, giving the name of William Miller and his address as Wheeling, W. Va., hired a horse and buggy from Burns & Giltinan, stating that he was going to drive to the East End. That was the last seen of him or the outfit. The firm got trace of him a few days ago and Mr. Burns made a trip to Connellsville, Pa., hearing that his horse and runabout were there.

He found that the outfit in Connellsville, which had been sold for a few dollars to a liveryman, did not belong to him, but to a liveryman in Brownsville. It is believed that the man who got Burns & Giltinan's horse and buggy sold them soon after leaving Pittsburgh and next visited Brownsville, where he got another rig in the same manner. Burns & Giltinan have advertised widely for their animal and vehicle and have notified the police in every town in Western Pennsylvania to be on the look out for the thief.

Girl Died of Alcoholism.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, PA., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—The coroner's jury empaneled to investigate the death of Agnes Torapkins, the 15-year-old girl who died suddenly at the St. Elmo restaurant on October 5 and who, it is alleged, had been given "knock-out drops," found that the girl had died from acute alcoholism, from effects of drinking whisky furnished by L. M. Miller and Ned Gillespie, a bartender at the Washington hotel.

TWELVE PAGES.

In the defeat of Congressman Loud of the Fifth California district, who was a candidate for re-election, there is much food for reflection. Mr. Loud has long been chairman of the house committee on postoffices and post roads. In that capacity he was instrumental in preventing certain legislation petitioned for by the letter carriers of the country. They began a campaign against his re-election and have accomplished their purpose. The committee on postoffices and post roads in the Fifty-eighth congress will have a new chairman and, no doubt, the letter carriers' legislation will be brought forward again.

Probably the first thought that will occur in this connection is that the intention of the civil service act to limit the political activity of public employes has been in some way a failure. Of course the primary object was to reduce partisan activity and to prevent party demands from interfering with the proper performance of public duties, yet the organization of the carriers in their own political interest is in some phases hardly less objectionable than similar organization in behalf of a political party. The defeat of Mr. Loud, in itself, is not a threat of disaster to the nation. Another able man can be found to head the legislative committee dealing with postal affairs. But the manner of his taking off suggests the possibility that another chairman may be dealt with in the same manner, or even that a speaker of the house may be marked for political burial for appointing a chairman and members of a committee who will not accede to any possible demands of letter carriers for increase of salaries or reduction of hours.

It is not to be supposed the letter carriers could long control the situation. Their real employer is the whole body of the sovereign people and unreasonable demands would soon be met by overwhelming adverse majorities at the polls, just as parties have been overthrown despite the utmost efforts of their partisan public employes. But the incident is instructive. It is proof that the spoils principle has not been wholly eliminated even from the employes of the classified service, and that self-interest continues a strong trait of human nature. If the socialist propaganda should prevail to the extent of making railroads, telegraphs and coal mining subjects of government operation as the postal service is, the power of public employes to make or mar political fortunes would be increased more than five-fold. It would then be a real danger. It would not be as easy for independent citizens to sustain official representatives who refused to forward unreasonable demands, and officials of the most sterling integrity only would undertake to resist demands made by such a body of voters. Socialism is not a remedy for greed and would only be a possible state of society where greed had been eliminated from human nature by culture or education.

In putting the Doukhobors under arrest the Canadian authorities have done the right thing, tardily. Primarily the arrest of the marchers is a measure to protect them against themselves. This may not be specifically contemplated by the laws, but the protection of society, for which government exists, broadly includes the protection of people from their own folly as well as from the folly or viciousness of others. The march of the Doukhobors, half naked and insufficiently nourished, could only be regarded as a type of slow suicide. It is within the right of the most liberal form of government to restrain the fanatics to prevent their suicide, and it will be just as proper to make them self-sustaining by a sentence to hard labor if they refuse to return to a rational mode of living.

It may be argued by some that the Canadian authorities are restricting the right of worship according to the dictates of individual conscience. Not at all. They are simply enforcing the laws against self-destruction and against human derelicts. There is no question of worship involved. At least if there is government is justified in interference to stop forms that involve such infractions of the divine laws as self-murder and antipathy to earning bread by the sweat of the brow. Government is justified in prohibiting what is plainly injurious to the fanatical participants and also to others. It would have been better if the Doukhobors had been left in Russia to be dealt with by the strong hand of the czar's government, but having migrated to Canada they must be rational, even though their consciences forbid them to conform altogether to the customs of the country. Insanity cannot be encouraged by any civilization.

Any scheme of river improvement that would inflict injury upon Pittsburgh would condemn itself by that fact. The river trade is tributary to the business of Pittsburgh and would defeat its own ends if it should assume a detrimental shape. Therefore, any scheme of change in the bridges must be subordinated to the general interests of the city, and should consider what goes over the bridges as well as what goes under them. The bridges are part of the street system of the two cities, and any idea of propping them away up above grade is so absurd as not to be entitled to serious consideration. The community has been striving for years to get rid of one hump that clogs its main thoroughfare, and the prospect of having a row of artificial humps where streets cross the rivers can hardly be viewed with equanimity. The friends of river improvement should frame their demands with the view of enlisting the support of the community, and it would be altogether unwise to antagonize the interests of the community. Deepening of channel, and proper clearance of channel can be secured without violent changes of grade in bridge approaches.

France is one of the European powers which shows an inclination to introduce western institutions among Oriental peoples and to induce them to substitute western conceptions of liberty for their own. The suffrage has been introduced in municipalities under restrictions and district legislative assemblies have been created. Along with these institutions has, however, gone a bureaucratic control which practically makes them unable to do anything the colonial administration does not want them to do, and all proceedings are subject to the approval of the governor-general. In its practical operation the system has developed an expensive bureaucracy and its results are being severely criticised by French publicists, whose arguments and representations are beginning to check the disposition of the French government to introduce French institutions in the colonies instead of utilizing indigenous institutions of government which the natives understand.

STATE ENDOWMENT OF POLITICAL AGITATION.

All competent students of our politics, from De Toqueville to Bryce, have noted as a powerful support to the stability of government that party organization with us comprehends all social classes and penetrates every social stratum from the highest to the lowest. Instead of shifting parliamentary groups, as in Europe, we have strong and compact national party organizations covering all the political activities of the people. This characteristic of our politics is the theme of much admiring comment by French publicists. French constituencies are inclined to act upon the advice which a certain class of reformers are so fond of giving in this country, namely, that party considerations should be ignored in order to elect good men to office. The rural constituencies' idea of a good man is that he spends his money liberally in the locality, so there have been cases where unmitigated scamps have been returned time and time again, using their official position and legislative opportunities to plague the government into satisfying their personal demands. An instance was recently reported of a wealthy jobber of this character who could not be defeated in his district, but whose affairs finally got into such way that he absconded, to the great relief of those who had been forced to associate with him in politics. The service which national party organization performs in this country by subjecting representatives to a definite party responsibility for the general policy of the government is so well appreciated that it is the aim to devise means of constituting similar agencies of public opinion in France.

Strangely enough a tendency has been unconsciously developed in this country to promote the formation of new parties and to encourage separate and independent political activity by special interests. This is illustrated in the draft of an act for ballot reform in Pennsylvania which has been prepared by the "joint committee for the promotion of electoral reforms and the merit system in Pennsylvania." The act purports to embody the Australian ballot system, but incidentally it proposes a state endowment of political agitation which is of far more constitutional importance than the character of any ballot system which might be adopted. There is a provision that the signatures of no more than 500 voters shall be required for any set of nomination papers which may be offered for a place upon the official ballot, that is to say, that the taxpayers shall bear the expense of submitting to all the voters of the state on election day any ticket which 500 voters may see fit to nominate. Although the force of the political traditions which incline voters to ally themselves with national party organizations is still so strong that the mischief so far has been limited in extent, the tendency toward the multiplication of tickets already has become quite marked. The ballot voted in many of the counties had 10 columns. The Socialist party had two tickets in the field. The existence of facilities for political candidacy at public expense is a continual invitation to class interests to organize themselves as political factions, and it opens up a prospect whose danger it is difficult to exaggerate.

Although this system has been introduced under the name of the Australian ballot system, it is an entire novelty. In Australia and in England every party represented upon the official ballot has to bear its proportionate share of the expense, and no reason has ever been given why the same rule should not be applied in this country. All the principles of the Australian ballot reform system could be readily applied to our politics without complication or difficulty if such were the real purpose, but the coteries of doctrinaire reformers who bombard the legislature with ballot reform schemes and heap denunciation upon all who oppose them are not sincerely seeking to accomplish what they say, but have ulterior interests to serve. They are using ballot reform as the cover of a system of state endowment of political agitation whose natural tendency is to convert our politics into a war of class interests. They are doubtless acting with good intentions and without appreciation of the consequences, but that will not make the consequences any less dangerous.

MASCAGNI'S TROUBLES.

No matter from what viewpoint it is considered, Mascagni's American tour is a misfortune. It is a misfortune for the American people in its incidents and ending, for Mascagni will have an entirely false, but wholly justifiable impression of us. It is a misfortune for Mascagni for the same reason, and because he is poorer in pocket when he had hoped to reap a reward commensurate with his talents. The gifted Italian's experiences have been such that it is doubtful whether he will care to return to this country. Other masters of the divine art of harmony have been rapturously received in the United States, and returned home weighted with gold, but disaster greeted Mascagni when he set foot on our shores, and disaster attended him at all the stages of his brief tour, reaching a climax in the disbandment of his company and an anti-climax in his arrest in Boston for debt on a claim for $8,000 made by his managers.

It may be that the failure of the Mascagni American season was due to poor management, as is declared by Mariana Cancelliere of this city, or American lack of appreciation of the maestro's undoubted talent and genius may be at the bottom of it, but whatever the cause, the failure is undoubted and it is as lamentable as it is true. Mascagni's talents deserved better than they received. Because he brought a company of musicians from Italy the Musical union refused to co-operate with him on his arrival in New York in furnishing the parts necessary to complete his orchestra, and the contract labor laws of the United States were also appealed to to bother him. Musicians who usually provide the music at the Metropolitan opera house sued him for rejected services. Artistic conditions here were unknown to Mascagni, and work was attempted after four days' rehearsal that critics aver required months of preparation. Scores and prompt books ought to have been supplied long before his arrival, so that on his appearance only a dress rehearsal would have been necessary. But little had been arranged in advance, and when the master appeared there was only confusion and short time to reduce it to order. Even the scenery brought from Italy without frames added to the trouble. In Philadelphia there was more of the same, though less strenuous, and on a return to New York, where he proposed to perform part of his musical setting for "The Eternal City" at a Sunday evening concert, he was informed that the owners of the American rights of his own composition would probably have an injunction issued to restrain him from doing so! Mr. Cancelliere sheds some light on additional troubles in Pittsburgh. That Pittsburgh appreciation was more manifest in the applause of the audiences than in the box office receipts we know.

It is all unpleasant. Unquestionably better management would have produced better results. Experience would have averted much that marred. There need not have been the complications that reduce art to the level of an industry, and much else need not have been, that will send Mascagni home with a very bad opinion of America. Doubtless we shall not see him for years; perhaps never again in this country. We hope, however, that some one may some day arrange with him for another American tour and arrange better.

BABCOCK AND REVISION.

Representative Babcock's interpretation of the meaning of the result of last Tuesday's election is ingenious, but not conclusive. "If," he says, "the Democrats had won the house it would have signified that the people want no tariff revision for the next two years, as it would have been impossible to accomplish anything in that direction with a Democratic house and a Republican senate. The impossibility of securing a revision of the tariff with a Democratic house and Republican senate is easily conceded, but nothing more. Had a Democratic house been elected Democrats would not have construed it as a rebuke to Democrats; Republicans could not have rejoiced in it as an indorsement, but it would have been universally regarded as a distinct encouragement to a free trade agitation. The people do not sustain and foster any set of national policies by voting the enemies of those policies a foothold in this government. They may some day measure up to such subtlety, but just now their procedure is the plain, straightforward one of voting for those whose policies they approve and against those whose policies they condemn. The issue of the campaign was not a deadlock between the two houses to prevent tariff revision by Republicans, but matters in controversy between the parties. No Republican anti-revisionist appealed to the people to elect a free trader for the purpose of preventing revision. The Republican victory, like all other Republican victories, is a triumph of the protection idea over the free trade idea. Tariff revision was the campaign issue only as the Democrats appeared as its champions, and Democratic tariff revision was voted down. The people voted for Republicans, not because they were revisionists, or because they were anti-revisionists, but because they were Republicans. Tariff revision by Republicans is a matter of schedules, not of principles. The schedules were not an issue last week. The people did not vote on them; they never thought of them. They are a matter for adjustment in party councils, or party caucuses, and not in national elections, and while the people did not vote for revision, as Mr. Babcock says they did, neither did they vote against it.

Alfred Mosely with his party of English workmen will leave New York on Thursday. They will be met at Buffalo by another section traveling by way of Montreal and all will go together to Cleveland, Chicago and other cities west. Pittsburgh will be left for the homeward journey, as it should be, for when the English workmen have seen Pittsburgh they will have seen the American workman and American industrial methods at their best. If capable of understanding they will go home with a fair idea of the American invasion of Europe and why it has occurred.

Very interesting services were conducted by the Young Men's Christian association last evening on the occasion of the Thirty-sixth anniversary of its organization. Dr. Scovel's address was of the right kind, broad and thoughtful, and interest was added by the fact that the Pittsburgh organization was effected in his church with his assistance. The association has done a great work and should be encouraged in every possible way that it may the better reach the young men through mental, physical and social channels to build up or protect their moral natures.

The chief of staff at Mercy hospital says the internes were asked to leave. The internes say they left because they wanted to go. This ought to be satisfactory all around.

While the ship building combine got launched all right, some of those who did the launching know more about finance and promotion than they did before they undertook the job.

Since the scalp of Representative Loud is said to be dangling at the belt of the Letter Carriers' union, that gentleman is likely to justify his name when congress reassembles.

Mr. Babcock advances some odd reasoning, but the voters know why they voted to uphold the policies of President Roosevelt and they will expect some action.

In a trade war between the National Tube Company and outside concerns some one is bound to get hurt, but there will be cheap pipe while it lasts.

Mascagni may not take many American dollars to Europe with him, but he is richer in experience.

In the Pittsburgh detective bureau the question is now who will laugh last.

The slump in stocks doesn't effect the dividends.

Remarkable Surgical Case.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

A few days ago a Miss Death was brought to the German hospital to be operated upon for appendicitis. She was a daughter, she said, of an undertaker.

The surgeon's name who was chosen to perform the operation was Dye—Dr. Frank Hackett Dye.

When the operation was over Miss Death was placed in charge of two nurses.

Miss Payne is the day nurse; Miss Grone is the night nurse.

The patient is recovering rapidly, and in a week or so Miss Death will bid goodby to Dr. Dye, Miss Payne and Miss Grone.

MOLINEUX PLANS BIG RECEPTION

Invites Friends to Court to Listen to Verdict of Not Guilty.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.

Roland B. Molineux, in his cell in the Tombs tonight, intends to hold a reception in court tomorrow when he is declared innocent of the murder of Mrs. Adams. This is the statement gravely made in the local papers. The young man, after being actually in the shadow of the electric chair at Sing Sing, is so sure that he cannot be convicted of the crime for which he has suffered four years' imprisonment, that his lawyers are said to have issued passes to favored individuals to come into court and witness the triumph of Molineux. The young clubman has been very cheerful all day, it is said. He has long been used to looking at the world through iron gratings, and a cell, as such, has few terrors for him. He gets good meals and cigars, and is well supplied with literature, and he takes his confinement philosophically. Now that he feels assured he will not be taken into that awful little room at Sing Sing, and done to death by an invisible agency while a score of white-faced men look on, he can accept without bewailing a day or two more in prison. What is a mere cell to one who has already in imagination, many times felt the straps at his wrists and the wet sponges at his ankles and neck, as the guards force him back into the chair. All that is over now, he believes, and tomorrow or Tuesday he expects to hear that he is free. As court is to begin on Monday half an hour earlier than usual, it is evident that Judge Lambert will endeavor to dispose of the case by evening, although he is not sure that it will not go over into Tuesday. At all events, Molineux is positive it can end in only one way, and he wants his friends to see him acquitted. It is said his wife will be by his side, too, when the jury files in with its verdict. In the face of Molineux' confidence, which is backed up by that of his lawyers, Osborne, the prosecutor, declares the case against him is clear, and that he will be convicted. Can anyone imagine the feelings of the defendant if it should happen that the jury decides against him?

Mascagni's Popularity Holds Up.

Although Mascagni's tour in this country has come to grief it is noticed that "Cavalliera Rusticana" is heard oftener than heretofore on hand organs, and that Mascagni's music is put forth prominently in music publishers' windows, while the works of other composers go into the background. I asked an Italian bootblack last evening if he had heard Mascagni's orchestra. To which he replied, in a tone of surprise at my asking such a question: "Why, sure. I want to every concert given in New York. How could I miss them?"

Has Little Tower of Babel.

Maurice Grau, the polyglot impresario, is with us again. He arrived on the French steamer, Lorraine, yesterday, and today was in his office at the Metropolitan opera house, as busy as if he had never been away. All his implements of industry—pens, ink, letterheads, contracts, etc.—are ready there at all times, and he can drop in from Europe and take up the thread of his affairs as easily as he can walk across Broadway to a restaurant for luncheon. Artists, mechanics, singers and dozens of other people came into the office of Mr. Grau today, and he had to speak to them in at least half a dozen different languages. That is all in his day's work, and he never hesitates to respond in the tongue of his visitor, whatever it may happen to be, provided it is one ever heard in opera. A great man in his line is Chevalier Maurice Grau.

Miss Gisslen a Passenger.

Miss Gisslen was the only Pittsburgh passenger on the Cunarder, Campania, when she sailed from this port for Liverpool yesterday.

Gorgeous Array of Art.

The art season, so far as New York is concerned, will open this week. The New York water color club will give a press view of the pictures of its thirteenth annual exhibition on Thursday, and the public will be admitted on the next day, to the Fine Arts building, in West Fifty-seventh street. Before that, however, we have had an exhibition of the summer work of the students of the New York School of Art, at its Fifty-seventh street rooms. It closed today. It has already been announced in this column that the National Academy of Design will hold an exhibition in the galleries of the Fine Arts society in January, beginning on the 3rd and continuing until the 31st. Exhibits will be received on December 15, 16 and 17.

All Want New Bargains

The rush at the new department store in Herald square yesterday afternoon was something remarkable. It seemed as if the shoppers wanted to realize the novelty of buying in Fourteenth street style on Broadway, and there was such a dense mass of humanity on the sidewalk all the afternoon that policemen on the beat were tired out when the store closed for the day. The experience was interesting, because it was an entirely new one for this part of the city. It did not seem like the same old Broadway at that particular spot.

Always Something New on Board.

The theatrical season continues to give new things week by week. This is partly explained by so many new productions proving failures, with consequent other things coming forward to fill their places. So, at the Bijou we are to have Mabelle Gilman, in her new comic opera, by Sydney Rosenfeld and A. Baldwin Sloane, entitled "The Mocking Bird," and at the Garden, Mrs. Sarah Lemoyne, in "Among Those Present." Then Duse will do "Francesca Da Rimini," for the first time in New York. Also at the Herald Square, Martin Harvey will appear in a double bill, "Rouget de L'Isle" and "A Cigarette Maker's Romance."

Football Microbe is Active.

New York was football wild last night as it is every Saturday at this season. Although the game in this city, that between Columbia and Brown, was not big enough to excite much interest, all the important 'varsity teams were fighting it out in different cities, and their progress was closely watched. In the evening, when the news, for good or ill, had been received from every gridiron to be digested leisurely, there was a concerted whoop of satisfaction and dismay from those who had been pleased or disappointed. While only a small portion of this city's population ever played football, and still fewer of them know a five-yard line from a drop kick, one can hear more learned discussions of the great game in any uptown hotel than would suffice to run the Polo grounds from now to Thanksgiving. The football microbe never was more vigorous than it is this fall.

Jack Frost Unwelcome Guest.

With a cold wave coming and little coal on hand, New York is not particularly joyous in facing the outlook. The conditions prevailing in flat houses have been rather worse than was anticipated, for owners do not seem to have been able to get coal for their furnaces at any price. That is their plea, at least. Tenants say that coal could have been procured, provided owners were willing to pay what dealers demand. The question has been open to dispute, and there have been several movings in consequence. Not much is gained by the disgruntled tenant in moving, however, for there is little difference in flats, and often the disgruntled tenant has found that he has stepped out of a skating ring into a cold storage warehouse, so far as the absence of calorie is concerned. New York is decidedly frostbitten, and, judging by the lugubrious reports of coal operators and dealers, there is no immediate relief in sight.

Even Bridge Jumping is Ordinary.

This is not exactly the kind of weather when a jump from the Brooklyn bridge into the East river appeals to the average man. But there was a bridge jumper yesterday, nevertheless. Beyond the fact that he was short and stout, and well-dressed, nothing could be told about him, for he never came to the surface after plunging in. A peculiar thing about the performance, was the little excitement it caused on the bridge. It seems as if New York is surfeited with bridge jumping as an entertainment. There have been too many trying the game since the late Steve Brodie did or did not perform the feat, some 15 years ago.

Memories of Steve Brodie.

Talking about Brodie, it is wonderful how his dingy little saloon in the Bowery continues to be a show-place for strangers in the city. When a visitor is taken around to do the Bowery his guide is sure to take him into Brodie's. There he can buy whisky, beer, or champagne, as his taste dictates, or according to the extent of his generosity, and he can have for his guests as tough a collection of men as he could want to meet. Most of them are of the class known as "pugs," who fight more with their tongues than the gloves, while a crowd of the nondescript sallow-faced, shabbily-dressed individuals, who might be anything from frayed out bartenders to begging-letter writers, are always in evidence. There are a lot of pictures of prize fighters on the walls and if one is known to be "all right" he may find pictures in the rear of the place of which Anthony Comstock would not approve. These pictures and sundry belts and trophies said to have belonged to the departed Steve, make up the attractions, of the place. They are strong enough to draw out-of-town visitors in paying numbers, however, and the Brodie saloon is one of the most profitable gin mills in the Bowery, small as it is.

Shekel Day In Ghetto.

This is "Shekel Day." Hebrews all over the United States observe it, but in New York Ghetto it has many picturesque features not seen elsewhere. There are so many orthodox Jews in the lower East Side that the long beard is as common there as the ordinary mustache is in districts distinctly American. Coincidently, there are more "shekels" contributed there than anywhere else in the same area. "Shekel Day" is that on which all Jews are requested to register as voters for delegates to the Zionist congress, the fee for registering being 25 cents. The Zionists seek to restore the Jewish nation, with a center in Palestine. It has been the dream of the Hebrew race for centuries to take and keep possession of its ancient land and this "Shekel Day" is one of the tangible indications that the desire is something more than a mere dream.

School Teachers May Marry.

Justice Cochran of the supreme court decided yesterday that school teachers who have been spinsters can be married, and still hold their positions in the schools. This is a point that has caused much heart-burning of late years. It is hinted that a number of young matrons have been afraid to confess that they were no longer unmarried, because it would mean the loss of their salaries. Justice Cochran granted the application of a Mrs. Murphy for a writ of mandamus directing the superintendent of schools to pay her back salaries. In giving the decision the court held that "marriage does not render a woman teacher unfit, immoral or incompetent." This may be of interest in Pittsburgh, as well as New York.

Friends Left in Dark.

Harry Mainhall, the romantic actor who died in Los Angeles of consumption, was very well known throughout the country, particularly in Pittsburgh, and his passing away caused a shock along the Rialto here. Dozens of people who knew him said they had not heard even that he was sick, much less that he was near to dying. He was at one time leading man with Maurice Barrymore, who is himself hopelessly ill at a sanitarium near this city.

Off for Land of Creoles.

A hundred bankers left New York yesterday afternoon on a special train to attend the twenty-ninth annual meeting of the American Bankers' association in New Orleans this week. In the party were bankers from up the state, as well as from New Jersey and New England. They expected to pick up some more in Pittsburgh as they passed through.

Only a Run for His Money.

If, as is reported, Bird S. Coler spent nearly $12,000 to be beaten for governor of New York, the only satisfaction he can have is that he got a "run for his money." Among his expenses was nearly $3,000 for lithographs, which argues that his features must be pretty well known all over the state. He may be able to use some of the pictures when he runs for mayor, or whatever happens to be his next political ambition. That should be a consoling thought. GEO. C. JENKS.

THE DEATH ROLL.

Michael Hannan.

Michael Hannan, aged 55 years, of No. 3623 California avenue, Allegheny, died at 7:20 o'clock last night at his home, of pneumonia. He had been ill of a cold for the past week and was last out of the house on election day. His death was very unexpected. Mr. Hannan was for 15 years a member of Allegheny select council from the Ninth ward and retired from that office four years ago, when he moved to his late residence in the Eleventh ward. He was born in Ireland and came to this country 52 years ago and for a time lived in Pittsburgh. About 25 years ago he moved to Allegheny and for many years worked in the Oellver mills, until he went into the saloon business at No. 668 Preble avenue, which business he was in up to the time of his death. He was a member of the Allegheny lodge of Elks, a Forester and belonged to St. Xavier's Roman Catholic church of Allegheny. He leaves a widow and eight children, Lawrence, Rose, Michael, Frank, Edward, Ellen, James and Annie. No arrangements for the funeral have yet been made.

Jonah Matthias.

Jonah Matthias died yesterday morning at 2 o'clock at his home on Matthias avenue, McKeesport. Mr. Matthias was of Welsh parentage. He resided in McKeesport for the past 25 years. He was employed for many years at the United States plant at Demmler, being a pioneer workman in the tin plate industry. He has lived a retired life for the past 12 years. He was 64 years of age and was a member of Guyonne lodge, No. 64, I. O. O. F., of Pittsburgh. Besides his widow he is survived by the following children. Mrs. Harr Lewis of Canonsburg, Mrs. Harry Williams, Mrs. Harry Meredith and Mrs. John Walter of McKeesport. William Matthias of Alabama and Frank and Achilles, residing at home. The body of J. McIntee, a veteran of the Philippine and Spanish-American wars, has arrived at Braddock and will be buried in the Monongahela cemetery tomorrow. McIntee served in the regular army in Alaska, being corporal of Company I, Fourteenth regiment, before the wars broke out. He served with Company K of the Eighth Infantry regiment in the Philippines for three years. He returned to this country but a short time ago and soon after his arrival died at Fort Bayard, New Mexico. He was the son of Patrick McIntee and was born in Scindale. He will be buried with military honors.

Jerry Swisshelm.

Jerry Swisshelm, 29 years old, son of Jerry Swisshelm, Sr., a retired contractor, died at the home of his parents, at Hawkins station, Saturday night after an illness of less than a week of pneumonia. Deceased was unmarried and was employed as a bookkeeper by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. He is survived by a brother, Robert D., who is a contractor; two sisters, Minnie and Helen, and his parents. The funeral services will be conducted from the home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, followed by interment at the Allegheny cemetery.

Art in the City.

From the Architectural Record.

People are beginning to recognize that it is almost as necessary that man be surrounded by beautiful objects as that he have bread to eat. Once his daily bread assured, he feels the need of a little art to brighten his life. He want to have it in his house and in the city where he dwells. Strange as it may seem to mercenary, utilitarian individuals, men take great delight in seeing their city rich, renowned, beautiful and outshining its neighbors by the splendor of its monuments. The Italian tyrants of the Renaissance period, knowing the human heart, obtained forgiveness for their tyranny by erecting palaces and churches, the beauty of which flattered the local pride. We want beautiful cities.

ANCIENT CHAIR FOR WORLD'S FAIR

Masontown Will Send an Exhibit With Interesting History.

MASONTOWN, "the metropolis of the Klondike" of the coke regions, will be represented at the St. Louis exposition. The pretty little village is not only very proud of its age, 104 years, but has many valuable relics of its youth that will be eagerly sought by curio hunters. One of these is a barber chair that now does duty as a loafing seat in the shop of the village barber. Over 97 years ago it was fashioned out of fine maple or "sugar" lumber, which now bears the scars of hundreds of feet and many ear marks that patient waiters have thoughtlessly left on its polished surface. The chair is a curiosity to the modern barber. About the height of a high chair, it has a seat very much like the old-fashioned barroom arm chair. The back is inclined so that the customer can stretch himself out, but he finds no cushioned support or foot rest to start him dreaming while the dainty steel runs over his face. A narrow board fits in a groove at the back of the chair, and this can be raised or lowered for a head rest, according to the length of the occupant. The history of the chair is said to be very interesting, and a 10-page account of its adventures has been prepared by the owner to forward to St. Louis. It came originally from Greene county, but has been in Masontown over 50 years. Until the last eight years it did active service. Six governors, a score or more military dignitaries and several of Pittsburgh's millionaire capitalists who were at different times inspecting the coke regions have been shaved in the old chair. Like other barber chairs, it has also been the scene of many a fierce brawl, and stories are still heard of life and death struggles in which the old chair played a prominent part. Two of its rungs are broken and the others are worn down almost to the size of a lead pencil by the thousands of feet that have rested upon them. Within the last few years many good offers have been made for the curious piece of barber furniture, either by manufacturers or by relic hunters, but its owner has steadily refused to part with it until after he had exhibited it at St. Louis.

IT ALL happened in a small town in Allegheny county, which supports two national banks. The rivalry between the two financial institutions is intense, and factional fights among many of the most prominent citizens of the town are always attributed to the banks.

The one institution is located at the most prominent corner of the town. Along its side is laid a flagstone pavement. Quite recently a small sewer under one of the stones became clogged and it was necessary to lift a large stone to remedy the trouble.

A water pipe from the roof of the building connects with the sewer and runs past one of the windows of the bank. The stone firm sent a laborer to lift the stone. He started his work and no sooner had the stone been partially lifted than he made a startling discovery.

A dime and a nickle were found underneath the flagstone. Hurriedly picking up the coin the employe ran for the bank president and informed him there was something radically wrong in the bank. The bank officer grew quite excited and went immediately to the scene of work.

The laborer then said:

"Say, Mr. President, this bank is leaking."

"Why how do you account for that, John," came the reply.

"Well, you can see I just found 15 cents here, and if this report gets out it's all off with your bank."

The president took a hearty laugh and went away.

KENNETH M., now in his 7th year, but whose baby ways of talking yet cling to him, remarked to his brother Lawrence, who had just returned from having his hair "blocked;" "How much did the barbo chage you to twim your hair?" (leaving the "r" off the last two words). Lawrence said, 25 cents. And then after a careful inspection of the docked hair and, evidently some counting, Kenneth said, "Well if you'd had it all cut it would cost about fivee dollahs, wouldn't it?"

THE OIL CITY FEDERAL BUILDING SITE, MR. STECK'S POSITION.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

Sir: In reference to the site selected by the United States authorities for a federal building in Oil City, I desire to say a few words.

In the first place, the sale was not of our seeking, but the government agent, after having carefully examined all the possible locations within the prescribed amount, and having noticed our sign upon the property in question, came to us to see about securing it for the purpose indicated.

The property was for sale, and had been so advertised a long time theretofore, and we had the same right to sell that property, that any other citizen or corporation have to dispose of their real estate, for a federal building, or any other lawful purpose.

The agent, Mr. Neals, made careful search for a more central location, near the present postoffice and the four banks, but the prices asked by the owners were simply such that the United States government could not afford to buy; hence he was compelled to purchase from those willing to sell for a reasonable figure.

The conditions of the sale were: (1) good title within 60 days, (2) removal of old buildings and improvements within 30 days after notice to do so, and that Steck avenue be "duly opened and dedicated."

These will all be fully complied with. To open a street means simply the physical act of throwing it open for travel to the public, and "to dedicate" means "to give" the same to the public.

Having made the government a fair offer after inspection and with a full knowledge of all the facts, and that offer having been accepted, the contract is complete upon the opening and giving to the public the street in question. In accordance with the laws of Pennsylvania, and that is just what we propose to do forthwith—to comply with all the conditions of the contract, literally, as evidenced by the writings which constitute the same.

No action of the city councils can legally affect that contract, for any citizen owning land has a right to plot it as he may see fit, and lay out the lots and streets thereon, and dedicate the latter to the abutting owners and the general public to use, just as the entire Graff, Hasson & Co. tract was plotted, on which most of the business part of Oil City now stands, streets, lots and all, by the owners thereof. Moreover, no abutting property owners had presented any petition to councils to take any action thereon, and any premature performances by them relating to a matter not properly before them, could in no wise, and in any event, affect the validity of a contract wherein the formal acceptance or non-acceptance by council was neither mentioned or within the contemplation of the parties, or in any way indicated as a condition precedent to the consummation thereof.

I do not wish to impose in any way on my fellow townsmen, as some have maliciously intimated. Neither do I propose to be imposed upon by any self-seeking individuals who may wish to curry popular favor or make capital out of a local issue, but I have been to a considerable expense in this matter, and if those who are now complaining most loudly had stepped forward at the proper time and offered any better site, instead of sleeping on their oars, or asking a prohibitive price for their land, I would have been perfectly satisfied that it should have been placed just where it would suit everybody, however, difficult that may be to do. But now, long after the deal is closed and expenses incurred, it is after the old fable of the dog in the manger for a few calamity howlers who took no interest whatever in the matter before, or refused to sell, to now railroad resolutions through councils in their own interests and try to stir up trouble to get another chance to bid, and abuse me for desiring to stand up for my rights and those I represent, in the premises.

We have this day notified the department of our position at length.

FRED A. STECK.

ART PRAISED AS AID TO RELIGION

The Rev. Dr. Levy Says Ancient Jewish Law Was Misinterpreted.

CATHOLICISM'S TRIUMPH

Welding of Art and Religion Was the Greatest Achievement of Roman Catholic Church—No Art Can Reproduce God.

Before a very large congregation the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy yesterday morning delivered his third lecture in the Temple Rodeph Shalom. The introduction of memorial windows and oil paintings in the synagogue is a modern innovation, and Dr. Levy took the opportunity in speaking on the subject of "Art and the Synagogue." He spoke in part as follows:

Art is Nature reproduced by the artist's sense of spiritual feeling. Nature is a manifestation of God, and the artist's function is to reproduce what nature discloses to his spiritual senses. The radical difference between photography and painting is found in the absence of the spiritual agent. The differentiation between the orchestrion and the orchestra is the want of soul. All art is spiritual interpretation of nature.

Art exerts an uplifting and refining influence. It broadens and elevates. It disposes toward a high enthusiasm and deprecates base tendencies. Only the great in art lives, and this truth is impressed upon every observer of the works of the masters. Art evokes a desire for the pure and holy. If we play with pitch its odor will cling to our fingers. If we revel in a beautiful exterior, the environment will tend to beautify the inner promptings of soul and mind. The filthy, but will probably indicate vileness. The Parthenon will suggest beauty of character. They are not invariably found together, but the presumption is in favor of the combination.

Art Is Uplifting.

Art is a teacher of the good and true. What preacher more powerful than a moral artist? What guide more potent than the sacred poet? The word, spoken or written, in the Bible, has saved nations, guided the destinies of people, enriched with divine promise the mourning ages, and illumines the future here and beyond. What friend can teach the moral qualities of uprightness better than the pealing sounds of "the frozen music" of architecture? What physician can impress on us the need of exercise for health, better than the sight of the Belvidere, or the marble man of Canova?

The world of today may justly appreciate the service of art. It is the chosen handmaid of religion and was so regarded in a limited sense by the people of Israel. To them music and poetry were powerful religious agents. Architecture seems to have been an almost unknown art, for even the Temple of Solomon was built under the lead of Hiram. Painting and sculpture found little favor with them. The reason is clear. The second commandment was interpreted to mean that "the image of nothing in heaven, on earth or in the waters," was to be made by any in Israel.

Law Was Misinterpreted.

This law must either have been observed in lax fashion, for the Temple of Jerusalem we find images of lions, oxen, palm trees, open flowers, and of cherubim, winged figures fifteen feet high, and whose outstretched wings were fifteen feet from tip to tip. This law has been, and is, generally interpreted when construed as being in opposition to all sculpture and paintings. I incline to the latter view. Josephus distinctly states (Book iii, chapter 5, paragraph 5) that the second commandment "prohibited the image of any living thing to worship it." This limitation escaped the notice of the Puritans in Israel and the law was taken to mean a prohibition of the plastic arts.

The Jews have rarely taken kindly to sculpture and painting. God, in His providence, did not send to Israel a Praxiteles, a Phidias or an Apelles. Israel had starner work to do. The annunciation to the world of a gospel of physical beauty. To His people He sent a Moses and an Isaiah, an Ezekiel and a Micah, and through the messages delivered to Israel by prophets, he gained a niche in the temple of humane service, in which are enshrined the memories of the world's bards and seers.

Israel Had High Mission.

Not to rear a beauteous image in stone, not to cover a canvas with gleaming color was Israel sent to the world, but to imprint on the human soul the holy name of Jehovah and to form of the human family a single family united in the practice of justice and equity. Principles, divine ideals, Israel was to teach. Let Greece teach the gospel of gracefulness, Israel was to teach the gospel of grace. Let Greece teach the holiness of beauty, it was Israel's to teach the beauty of holiness.

Whatever the attitude of our fathers, who in the days of image worship, opposed the plastic arts, we today, can no longer follow in their footsteps. Napoleon is said to have suggested that the Venus of Milo and the Apollo Belvidere should be wedded. A more remarkable marriage took place, when, under the superb direction of the Roman Catholic church, Jewish idealism and Greek aestheticism were united. The union of religion and art, by the Roman Catholic church, represents one of the highest services rendered to humanity by any organization of men.

Limitations of Art.

We cannot but look with pain, however, upon paintings of God in human form. Angelo's delineation of the "Creation," Carlo Dolci's "Benevolent Father" may be triumphs of art, but they wound us in endeavoring to give form to the incorporeal God. We may redeem the sense of devotion that inspired such a canvas, but we must dissent from such productions of the Divine Face. I have no fear that my people will turn to a stained glass window or a colored canvas and fall before it in prayer.

Art which reproduces God's form leads to a subtile mode of idolatry. But art, which interprets God's works, which would have us see His wonders in His world, leads us to His footstool. Such art we may safely welcome within our synagogues.

We should beautify our temples, cover their walls with sermons in color and we should strive to make them symbols of our own physical dwelling, the body, which is a temple in which God deigns to abide. Thus used, art would bring us nearer to God, would impel us to fall prostrate before Him ang cry from the depths of a God-filled heart, "Holy, Holy, Holy, is the Lord of Hosts, the whole world is filled with His glory."

MARTIN LUTHER.

The Rev. Dr. S. A. Ort Tells of the Life and Work of the Great Reformer.

In Trinity Lutheran church of Stockton avenue, Allegheny, the Rev. S. A. Ort of Springfield, O., preached on Martin Luther, the anniversary of whose birth occurred yesterday. The text was taken from Hebrews xi.:3: "He being dead, yet speaketh."

The introduction was a review of the conditions, political, ecclesiastical and religious at the beginning of the Sixteenth century. Dr. Ort then gave an account of the life and work of Luther and the results of that work. He traced Luther's course, from his youth on up to early manhood, showing the kind of preparation he received in the best schools of that day for his life work.

Dr. Ort next spoke of Luther's appearance before the public, in his opposition to indulgences, and dwelt upon the fact that this was the beginning of the great reformation. He then spoke of the greatest event in the life of Luther, namely, his appearance before the empire and the church at the diet of Worms. He concluded by giving estimates of the character of Martin Luther, by such men as Froude, Carlyle and Calvin Stowe.

"OBERAMMERGAU."

Largest Crowd in History Attended Services in Bijou Theater.

The largest crowd in the history of the Sunday meetings in the Bijou theater was present yesterday and several hundred people were turned away. Unusual enthusiasm marked the entire service. The Rev. S. Edward Young, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, exhibited colored views of the Passion Play at Oberammergau which he took himself while there in 1900.

Mr. Young preached a sermon on the "Passion Play," and took his text from Galatians iii:1. "Before the eyes, Jesus Christ hath been evidently set forth crucified among you."

GOD'S KINGDOM NEXT GREAT WORLD POWER

EVANGELIST C. S. LONGACRE.

C. S. Longacre, an evangelist, addressed a meeting in the Republican Auditorium, Sixth avenue and Cherry alley, last night. He spoke on "Which Will Be the Next Great World Power?" and said there would be no new great world power until God established His kingdom on earth. Meetings will be held every night this week and on Sunday. Mr. Longacre will be assisted by W. H. Schwantz of Williamsport, Pa., and E. J. Dyer of Toronto, Canada.

PROBLEM OF SAVING SLUMS OF THE CITY

Rev. John A. Jayne Points Out Great Work for Modern Christians.

At the Observatory Hill Christian church, Allegheny, yesterday morning, the Rev. John A. Jayne preached upon the theme "Problems That Confront Pittsburgh Churches—The Problem of the Slums." His text was Acts 11:19, 20, 29. Mr. Jayne said in part:

The story told in the Acts of the Apostles, that the disciples went everywhere preaching the gospel, indicates that they were not afraid of going into the poorer districts of the city and country with their virile message. The theory of "survival of the unfit" Sociology has not solved the question, though undoubtedly social settlements have been the means of many leaving the slum and joining that vast body of people called by Mr. Carnegie the "swimming tenth."

The moment a family gets into the swimming tenth there is hope that it may continue its progress and get into respectability. But for the slum itself there is no help, no hope, save in the gospel of Jesus Christ. The gospel in a man's heart, inspiring him to work, keen away from the intoxicating cup, will prevent his falling into the slum. The gospel at work in the lives of reformers in men and women will lead them to help struggling, tempted humanity, and thus keep many from falling. The gospel carried by Christian workers into the slums and lived there will influence many to better things. The gospel in the slum in the form of a practical philanthropy that does not pauperize, does not degrade or pauperize, will give many the needed impulse to rise to better things. One does not have to go to the slum to find the need of the gospel. The slum. Wherever there is a slum heart, whether it be on the hilltop or in the valley below, there is a slum. The duty then of Christian people is this: Wherever there is a heart untouched by the gospel of Jesus Christ, there is an opportunity for Christian work that should be embraced.

MEMORIAL FOR DEAD.

Catholic Mutual Benefit Association Inaugurated Services in Bijou Theater Last Night.

The initial memorial service for the deceased of the Catholic Mutual Benefit association, was held in the Bijou theater last evening. Several hundred persons took part in the services. The Rev. W. A. Cunningham, grand spiritual adviser, presided and made an address on "Memorial Day—Why?" He told the reason for the observance of a memorial service for the dead, and stated that a day would be set aside for this purpose every year.

The Rev. Thomas F. Walsh addressed the association on "Why We Pray for the Dead." His address was listened to with interest. "What is the Mass, and Why Is It Offered for the Dead?" was the subject of an address by the Rev. J. J. Price. James Francis Burke spoke on behalf of the association, and told its history, why it was founded and the work it had done.

Music was interspersed throughout the services by Bockmyer's orchestra. The Sacred Heart quartet, composed of Mrs. William H. Roberts, soprano; Miss Cecelia M. Wolfe, alto; Martin M. Dixon, tenor, and William L. Steele, bass, sang several beautiful and appropriate numbers, including Tours' "O Salutaris." A duet, Rossini's "Quis Es Home," was rendered by Mrs. Roberts and Miss Wolfe. An "Ave Maria," by Gounod-Bach, was sung by Mrs. Roberts.

LIQUOR INTERESTS ALARMED.

The Rev. W. J. Russell Says They See End of Their Trade.

The Rev. W. J. Russell, pastor of the East End Christian church, preached last night on "Great Is Diana of the Ephesians," taking his text from Acts 19:34. He said in part:

Today there are many like ancient Demetrius, who say our "craft is in danger; great is Diana of the Ephesians." Christianity is aggressive and antagonizes everything that is illegitimate in business. Every institution of evil must give place to the triumphant march of the Master's kingdom. And one of the strongest evidences we have that a business is not honorable or legitimate is that it swindles and shrinks away before the light of the Christ.

The saloon is an organized villainy, a relentless and audacious despotism. The deliberate purpose of this traffic is to perpetuate itself, and to this end it is seizing upon every means and instrumentality which comes within its reach. But Christianity is putting this enemy to flight. There are forces working to bring about a reorganization of American society, and all in the interest of our home, social and political life.

Baptized in Icy Water.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—The icy mountain waters of the Youghiogheny river has baptized more than a score of converts of the United Brethren church of this place. The Rev. W. V. Barnhart, the pastor, has been conducting special meetings for some weeks. Many townspeople are attracted by a choir singing early Sunday morning on the banks of the river, while the pastor observes the sacred rite of immersion.

GOLDEN JUBILEE IS CELEBRATED

Second Methodist Protestant Church is Fifty Years Old.

HAD SMALL BEGINNING

Founder of the Reisville Mission School, Thomas F. Scott, Was Guest of Honor at Yesterday's Service.

Members of the Second Methodist Protestant church, the Rev. I. A. Barnes, pastor, are celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the church. The golden jubilee, which commenced yesterday, will continue throughout the week, and prominent ministers of the denomination, many of whom were former pastors of the church, will deliver addresses.

The celebration yesterday morning was opened by an address by the Rev. Alfred F. Pierce, pastor of the South Congregational church of Brockton, Mass., who was pastor of the Second church from 1877 to 1880. "Our First Jubilee" was the subject of his address, and the motto of Paul, "Forgetting the past and pressing forward," his theme.

He said that Paul did not mean to literally forget the past, as that was not a possibility, but to consider its relative value with its relation to the future. He said we cannot forget the past if we would, as the past, with the present, makes our identity and personality, the past being the soil in which the present is rooted.

"Some," he declared, "make a mistake by living entirely in the past, and are weighted and limited by their past, making no effort to advance.

"The Second church should thank God for its past and the policy then established of looking carefully after the children and ministering to all classes in the community, as it is on that policy the church has been built up to its present standard."

Organizer Was Present.

During the afternoon the Sunday school held a reunion, which was in reality the feature of the entire celebration, as the organization of a Sunday school in Reisville in 1852 was practically the beginning of the church organization, which followed soon afterward.

At yesterday afternoon's celebration the guest of honor was Thomas F. Scott of Castle Shannon, who 50 years ago established a mission Sunday school in Reis' hall, near the present church location in Fifth, near Pride street. Mr. Scott is now a feeble old man of 81 years, and was conducted to the seat of honor on the platform, supported on each side by deacons of the church, who steadied his tottering footsteps.

His face beamed with the joy his feeble voice could not express, when greeted with the Chautauqua salute by the audience.

Following in his footsteps came the Sunday school, the little ones of 5 and 6 years in the lead, carrying the banner of the Reisville Mission Sabbath school. Mr. Scott had prepared an address on the "Importance of Sunday School Work," which was read by the Rev. A. F. Pierce. Mr. Scott said in his address that next to the preaching of the gospel, which undoubtedly claims the highest attention, was the instruction of the rising generation in the principles of the Christian religion. He said that it was a well-established fact that throught the teachings in Sunday school many had been brought to the church and became ornaments to society and blessings to the world.

Old Superintendents There.

The Rev. I. A. Barnes, pastor of the Second church, read a brief history of the organization of the Sunday school, at which there were but six scholars present, with five teachers to look after them. The six scholars were Maggie J. Thompson, aged 13 years, now Mrs. Robert Marshall; Susan G. Thompson, aged 11 years, now Mrs. John Marshall; Alice Bradley, aged 9 years, now Mrs. Charles Bradley; Martha Bowley, aged 8 years, now Mrs. Wattles; Schuyler Nicholson, aged 12 years, now deceased; William D. Armor, aged 10 years.

The school was established through the efforts of Miss Ellen Gladdall, then a resident of Reisville, now a part of the Fifth and Sixth wards.

Of the 21 superintendents the Sunday school has had since its organization, nine were present at the meeting yesterday afternoon, and the older ones talked reminiscently of the early days. They are Thomas F. Scott, J. R. Heisley, Samuel Scott, Rev. A. F. Pierce, Thomas B. Evans, A. C. Shafer, William A. Keber, William S. Markley and the present superintendent, Albert Pierce McAdams.

The Rev. George Shafer of Bellevue spoke at the evening session, taking for his topic, "The Temple of God." Addresses will be made each evening during the week except Friday, when a social reunion of members and friends of the church will be held.

BIG INFLUX OF BEAUTIES.

Arrival of "Sleeping Beauty and Beast" Company Caused a Commotion.

There were lively happenings in and around Union station for a time yesterday. The excitement commenced when the special trains arrived from Chicago, bringing "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" company, which begins a two-weeks' engagement at the Alvin theater tonight. In the make-up of this big aggregation there are about 200 English beauties, and they still possess the "haccent" that makes the speech of some English people sound so funny to American ears.

CHILDREN PROMISE TO JOIN CHURCH

Thousands of children in the Sunday schools throughout the country yesterday promised to become members of church. It was Decision Day, and was set apart for the purpose of making a special effort to persuade children to ally themselves with some congregation, and was observed with appropriate exercises in every church in the land. The golden text, "Choose you this day whom you shall serve," met a generous and cordial response from the young people.

AMERICA'S MISSION TO BALANCE OF WORLD

The Rev. U. S. Greves Tells How We Must Spread Religion of Freedom.

The Rev. U. S. Greves preached a sermon in the Forty-third Street Presbyterian church yesterday morning on "The Mission of America." His text was taken from John viii:32, "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth will make you free," and Lev. xv:10, "Proclaim liberty throughout the land to all the inhabitants thereof." Mr. Greves said in part:

Not more loudly did old liberty ring out the message of freedom a century and a quarter ago than these words of Jesus and the ancient book of Leviticus ring out the same message now. The life and teaching of Jesus were pervaded with the thought of human freedom. For this he gave his life on the cross. And though he was not a revolutionist, and absolutely disclaimed any intention of overthrowing governments, to his teaching more than anything else does this world owe its knowledge of political and religious liberty. And all nations our own has best learned that lesson.

We are free from classes and castes and trappings of royalty. England is not as free. The only American title of rank and honor is "minister." It is this unlimited freedom, political and religious, that makes the mission of America to the world. We ought to give it because the world wants it. The work of the American mission is the spreading of the gospel of freedom, a far higher religious conception than merely "to catch them, sprinkle them and let them go."

Our position geographically, midway between the oppressed people of Europe and the sin-degraded people of Asia; our power, the richest, most energetic nation on the earth, demand that we do this work. To fulfill our mission to the world, we must maintain our freedom at home. This is no easy task. The top stands upright only as long as it spins, and we shall be free, only as long as we stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ made us free. To do this, barrels of money, tons of labor, and hours and days of prayer are necessary. Are we willing to pay the cost?

WAITING FOR WORD FROM GROETZINGER

Friends and Relatives Anxious to Hear the Story of Wounded Man.

No further word was received yesterday from the wife of Emil P. Groetzinger, who was found by her in Alexandria, Va., and removed to a hospital in Philadelphia. All day long friends of the family waited in the Groetzinger home, No. 61 Harrison avenue, Bellevue, expecting a message from Mrs. Groetzinger.

As Mrs. Groetzinger, in notifying her mother that she had started for Philadelphia with her husband also telegraphed that he was suffering from a wound in the head, much anxiety is felt by his friends and relatives regarding his condition. Until late last night no other message had been received from Mrs. Groetzinger, so that it is not even known whether she arrived in Philadelphia or was obliged to discontinue her journey on account of her husband's condition. It is feared that Mr. Groetzinger's mind may be deranged from the effects of the blow he is supposed to have received, and that Mrs. Groetzinger may have trouble conveying him to Philadelphia.

It is hoped that a letter, detailing the circumstances of Mr. Groetzinger's disappearance, may be received today. He left home on October 21, to take a parcel to his sister in Avalon. He had $125 in his pockets. He did not arrive at his sister's house and was not heard of again until his wife received the telegraphic message saying he was sick in Alexandria, Va. The parcel was found in a field about a week after Mr. Groetzinger vanished.

When there is frequent "hawking" of mucus, hoarseness, a hacking cough, or corresponding symptoms, more serious pulmonary troubles are to be apprehended. Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant will remove such obstructions and effect a permanent cure.

BEAUTY AND HEALTH

She who would preserve her beauty, or such degree of it as she may possess, must be ever vigilant not only against the attacks of time and circumstance, but against those of mental conditions and tendencies of the disposition.

Emotions Destroy Beauty.

Time is relentless and is with difficulty beguiled into forgetting his mission of adding wrinkles and silvering hair. It remains with the woman either to assist or retard his work.

None of us can avert misfortunes or grief, but we can refuse to nurse our woes long after they have passed and to brood over what we were perhaps not responsible for. It is true that we cannot forget our reverses or bereavement, but why forever pull a long face and squeeze out emotional tears over what might have been good discipline for our characters had we met it with a brave spirit and serene countenance. There are undoubtedly times of bereavement when sacred tears must flow, but the woman who weeps if her husband is 10 minutes later than usual getting home, or if her servant says something impertinent, cannot expect to have bright eyes. Unrestrained and frequent crying is well known to have a most serious effect upon those organs that were meant to flash with merriment and glow with tender sentiment and sympathy.

Another habit destructive to beauty, and indulged in very freely by schoolgirls, is that of contorting the features while carrying on a prolonged chatter. Foreheads are corrugated, eyes rolled, lips pursed and smacked, noses elevated and innumerable grotesque motions made that are at first ludicrous and finally distressing to the observer.

When fruit is eaten its acids are changed in such a way as to diminish the acidity of the blood, and it is therefore, to be highly recommended for rheumatic persons, and an exclusive fruit diet for a day or two is often good in correcting biliousness.

The Value of Fruit.

Nearly every fruit may be taken with advantage by almost every person, provided it be in perfect condition, ripe, but not overripe, and that it be taken as a food in itself, not as an appetizing adjunct to an already ample meal. Nowadays the fruit breakfast is doing a vast amount of good in keeping the system in working order.

Apples, however prepared, oranges and grape fruit are particularly beneficial and they need little preparation. Then there are in winter, bananas, which are nourishing and easily digested when baked, prunes, which can be prepared in various delicious ways, figs, dates, and all the preserved, canned and dried fruits which have been put up during the summer.

The Gray-Haired Woman.

One of the latest vagaries of Dame Fashion this season seems to be gray hair. She has run through a whole gamut of fashions regarding our locks—has given the ruddy-brained damsel the preference for a season and then veered round capriciously to ebony tresses. Hair of pale gold, of Titian red, or of copper color have all been exploited and discarded, and now she is actually trying to "bring in" gray hair. Naturally we shall not all be expected to lay our youth under the car of Juggernaut and bleach our locks. But the women who are really gray can be gray quite comfortably with the pleasing knowledge that they are only following the dictates of La Mode, and will gain a decided distinction by so doing. And, frankly, there is nothing more becoming. It is only the period of "growing gray" that is so distressing and that tells its tale, a tale in which the ugly claws of time—"crow's feet" and wrinkles—seem to form a necessary part. If we could only grow gray all at once. In a single night, there are few of us who would quarrel with the color of our locks. Quite alas, it is always some crushing sorrow that works that miracle, as in the case of those ill-fated royal namesakes, Mary of Scotland and Marie Antoinette, queen of France, and we ordinarily happy mortals have to go through the period of faded hair unbecomingly streaked before we can reach the goal.

The Sleep Which Is Refreshing.

Most of us sleep about one-third of our time. Do we get the greatest amount of good in the time spent? This question probably will not interest the class of sleepers who throw themselves on any sort of a bed, drop off into the land of Nod at once, and snore until it is time to get up.

But there is a large class of people, brain workers and bearers of many cares, who have to woo the drowsy god and do not always win him. Many busy housewives suffer tortures with insomnia.

First let us consider the bed. Feather beds and any sort that are soft, allowing the body to sink in, should be abandoned, and a fairly hard one, even and free from lumps, adopted. This mattress should be placed on a good spring and if one must have a pillow let it be a flat, firm one. Big downy pillows are enemies to good sleep, and to the complexion as well, for the sleeper's face being buried and pressed into unnatural folds the inevitable result is wrinkles.

A soft bed and pillow will make the flesh soft, flabby and wrinkly, while a firm, even surface bed allows the flesh to grow firm and smooth.

Undoubtedly the best attitude is on the back, the arms lying straight at the sides, and a minimum of pillow, or no pillow at all. Keep the mouth closed and always, sleep or waking, breathe through the nose as deeply as possible. Think about the very pleasantest and sweetest things in your life, and no matter how many cares or troubles you may have through the day put them resolutely out of your mind when you put off your clothes, so you will sink into slumber with only lovely thoughts and a lovely expression on your face and then it will grow there, and you will wake up each morning with a refreshed, graceful, firm body and a serene and lovely countenance.

Unhealthy Waste Pipes.

Housewives should not forget that even with the most attractive open plumbing, the collection of filth in waste-pipes is still to be reckoned with. Until glass or something equally smooth can be used, the absorbant corrosive piping will accumulate matter that endangers health. Pipes should be frequently flushed out with strong hot sal-soda water, and afterwards with clear water.

Milk a Perfect Food.

A great many people never think of taking milk except as a beverage; most of this class assert that they cannot tolerate milk in any form. This dislike may often be overcome by the addition of a little unfermented grape juice to each glass of milk; but a more satisfactory way cows' milk is disliked and found to be indigestible by some adults is that when the milk is not sipped, the casein formed by the action of the curdling ferment of the gastric juice is dense and tough. The addition of lime water to the milk causes it to be precipitated in easily digestible flakes, and thus overcomes the disadvantage to a great extent. A tablespoonful of the water to each glass is sufficient; a little sugar of milk may be added to correct the taste of the lime-water if necessary. Prepare the lime-water by pouring water on some clean slaked lime, and after allowing it to stand until perfectly clear, pour off the water into bottles.

By this method the dislike for milk will soon be corrected, and when the tired stomach has resumed its normal state, milk may again be taken, if sipped, without the addition of lime-water. Learn to like milk even if it requires an effort on your part; the gain in health from the proper use of this perfect food is worth much more than it costs.

Yale and Princeton Prepare for Big Game

WASH.-JEFF. TEAM MAY PLAY HERE

East End Eleven Trying to Book Collegians for Friendship Park.

THANKSGIVING DATE

The Washington and Jefferson football team may yet Play in Pittsburgh this season. It is just probable that Manager Craig of the Washington county college eleven will today close a contract with Manager P. J. Walsh of the East End Athletic team for a game at Friendship park on Thanksgiving Day.

Some few days ago the management of the East End team closed up negotiations for Friendship park and as the team has an open date for the holiday and Wash-Jeff has no game scheduled for that date, it is probable that the two teams will meet in Pittsburgh.

The accommodations at Friendship park at not as good as are desired by the Washington management. The grandstand will only seat about 350 people, but special arrangements have been made to erect new bleachers along the side lines which will accommodate over 1,000 persons.

W. & J. Would Draw Well.

Despite the poor showing made by Wash-Jeff this year, if they play in the city Thanksgiving day they will draw one of the largest crowds of the season.

From now on it is expected that a political battle royal will be waged by William C. Temple and his friends to keep the Wash-Jeff eleven from playing here this year. At the close of last season Temple made a specific announcement to the effect that under no circumstances would the Washington college team be allowed to play here this season, and he has spent several thousand dollars to keep them out.

Manager Walsh, however, has a permit for the use of Friendship park for Thanksgiving Day and he has guaranteed the Wash-Jeff management there will be no interference with the game if they will consent to come here.

May Play Bucknell.

At the Monongahela house last night Manager Craig of the Washington and Jefferson team, said:

"Yes, it is true we have an offer from the East End team to play in Pittsburgh Thanksgiving Day and it is just possible we may accept it. We have that date open, but have some negotiations on with the Bucknell team to play in Washington on the holiday.

"We will know definitely today which game we will accept. There has been some little hitch in bringing the Bucknell team to Washington, but this will all be settled today. Wash-Jeff will draw a good crowd here if we decide to come to Pittsburgh.

"We could easily cut in on the attendance at the Colosseum, and there are hundreds of Washington people who will come here Thanksgiving Day just on account of the stand Mr. Temple has taken against us."

Cornell's Rough Work.

The Washington and Jefferson 'varsity team and subs spent yesterday morning in Pittsburgh. They were a sorry lot after their drubbing by Cornell Saturday and many of the eleven are disabled. The collegians are loud in their wail against the Cornell method of play, which they say was the roughest they have encountered this year.

Even at Princeton the men declare they were better treated. It appeared to be the policy of Cornell to put out Wash-Jeff men and Sutter went down in the first few minutes of play with a broken wrist. McCleery was kicked on the head shortly after and was down and out for some little time. He was so dazed he did not come to until after the game.

There is a loud wail at Washington on account of the poor showing of the team which is attributed to the extremely poor coaching abilities of Elbridge H. Green of Harvard. There is no harmony on the 'varsity eleven and Green is said to be the cause of this.

GRIFFITH'S SUCCESSOR.

Charley Comiskey Looking for a Manager for His Chicago White Sox.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Who will manage the White Sox during their season of 1903? That is the question which is interesting Chicago's baseball fans. While it is not yet officially announced that Griffith is going to New York, there is little doubt that last year's leader of the South Side team will be in Gotham another season at the head of the American league's new team.

Comiskey is himself one of the greatest if not the greatest baseball manager in the country, and it is possible that he may elect to again assume personal charge of the team next season. If he does the managing end of the Chicago American league team could not be better cared for. It is doubtful, however, if the "Old Roman" will relish another season on the road, and it is more than likely that he will work through a "middle man" this year, as he has for the past two seasons with Griffith.

Among those who have been mentioned as a successor to Griffith may be mentioned Jimmy Callahan and George Davis. A rumor of some months ago credited George Davis with the berth and there is a possibility that the former New York manager might get the place, although this is not at all probable.

Opening at Manchester.

Tonight will mark the opening of the basketball season of 1902-1903 at Manchester Turner hall, an event which has been looked forward to for some time with great anticipation by the loyal rooters of that vicinity. Manager Koch has secured a good attraction for the opening game in the East Liberty team, which has the honor of being one of the few teams which defeated the Manchester team last season. An interesting preliminary will be played by the Manchester Juniors and the Enterprise A. C., the first of a series of three games for the 16-year-old championship of Allegheny.

Line-up:

AMONG THE FIGHTERS.

Mike Johnston wants to meet Simon Francis to a finish fight for $50, which will be posted if Friends appears and agrees to fight.

Wagner is a member of the West End football team which played against the Deaf Mutes team of Edgewood. In one of the rushes Wagner fell the opposing team on top. When he got up it was found he had a fractured leg. He was taken to his home at 5540 Penn avenue, where his injuries were dressed.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Dr. W. C. Johnston president of Geneva college is in receipt of a draft for $1,000 from a friend who will not allow his name to be made public, the proceeds of which are to be applied towards the payment of the debt on the athletic field of the college. This leaves about $1,000 of the debt unpaid.

YALE IN SHAPE TO MEET TIGERS

Injured List Small and Coaches Have Selected Team for Big Game.

WORRY AT HARVARD

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 9.—Field Coach Swan of the Yale team returned from the Harvard-Pennsylvania game today, and speaking of the Harvard team said: "The Harvard team did not play perfect football once or twice yesterday, but it showed tremendous power and will be sure to play a very strong game when it meets Yale."

Charley Rafferty of Pittsburgh, left end, who was knocked out yesterday with a cut head, will don his uniform and rehearse signals. He will play against Princeton next Saturday.

Kinney, the left tackle, who has been out of the game for two weeks, will also be able to play tomorrow. Kinney, Rafferty and Holt are the only players of the squad who are not in perfect shape. Holt is a trifle fine and will be rested this week. The coachers now fully intend to line Yale up next Saturday against Princeton as follows:

Left end, Rafferty; left tackle, Kinney; left guard, Glass; center, Holt; right guard, Goss; right tackle, Hogan; right end, Shevlin; quarterback, Rockwell; left half, Chadwick; right half, Metcalf; fullback, Bowman.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 9.—Worry is evident at Harvard, the grand showing made by Pennsylvania yesterday and the weak defense and crude fumbling by crimson stars causes alarm.

Coach Bouve, the famous old guard, said today that it was the rankest football he ever saw, and that Yale has nothing to fear from Harvard. The backs were so slow to start that trouble is in store for them.

Big King's absence hurt, too. He is out of the game for good. He will not play in the Yale game, as Yale has insisted on the four-year clause, and if there is any doubt lingering, the action of the athletic committee stills it. The team is in a bad way.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—The Princeton eleven has rounded into the last week of the season. In some respects the showing up to this time has been remarkable. Its goal line has not been crossed. It has shown surprising strength on the defensive ever since the season began.

It is pre-eminently a team of fighters, green almost all the way through, but game to the core. That is the first point that should be noted as the Tigers enter upon their last week of practice, for, in the opinion of the coaches, it is the most important.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—The University of Pennsylvania team arrived home from Boston today in fair shape after its hard game with Harvard Saturday. The members of the team generally are satisfied with the good showing they made against the mighty crimson eleven, but it is claimed Pennsylvania should have stopped Harvard's second touchdown.

The coaches are jubilant over the result of the contest, and it seems to be the consensus of opinion it was one of the greatest games that has been played on the gridiron in years. Pennsylvania will start active work again tomorrow for the Indians, who play at Franklin field Saturday. A victory over the redmen is looked for, but the players know it will have to be earned.

KING RULED OUT.

The Big Harvard Center Will Not Be Allowed To Play Against Yale.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 9.—An official statement as to the status of King, the center of the Harvard 'varsity eleven, will be given by the Harvard Crimson tomorrow. It conveys the information that King will not play against Yale. The statement says:

"O. King, who has been playing at center, was unexpectedly withdrawn from the Harvard team in the game against Pennsylvania, as the result of a decision reached by the athletic committee Saturday. When King first became a candidate for the team he produced a certificate from the athletic committee of Indiana university that he had been a member of the regular football eleven of that university for three years; that he was eligible for one more year under the four-year rule. On this information he was allowed to try for the Harvard team.

"It transpired later that in addition to the three years as a regular representative of the University of Indiana he had played during his freshman year on a mixed team, containing players not then in college. There is a difference of testimony and opinion as to whether the games during the freshman year constituted representation of the university but the athletic committee ruled him out on the belief that he had had four years within the spirit and intention of the four-year rule. It is unlikely that he will be restored for the Yale game."

Newsboy Is Better.

William Streecker, the 9-year-old boy who underwent a severe operation at the South Side hospital Saturday, is reported as resting easily and in a fair way to recover. He was run over on the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston road and had one leg amputated at the hip and the other at the knee. The doctors did not believe he would live, but he told them he would not die, but would fight it out, and it looks as though his nerve would prevail.

The Kiskiminetas and High school football teams meet at Friendship park this afternoon to practically decide second place in the Western Pennsylvania school championship. Shadyside is the champion team, being undefeated this season. Today's game will be for blood, and will be fought to the limit. Kiski will endeavor to break their string of defeats, while High school by winning will justify its claim of strength and its second position so far in the race.

The game will be called promptly at 3:30. The teams will line up as follows:

High School.		Kiski.
Crookston	L. E.	B. Porterfield
Zelch	L. T.	Waite

STATE TO PLAY STARS.

Centre County College Team Meets Pittsburgh at Colosseum Saturday.

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Chagrined over their defeat by Connie Mack's Athletics in Philadelphia, Saturday, by the narrow margin of one point, the Pittsburgh eleven reached Greensburg early this morning. None of the players feel the effects of the game, but all agree in the statement that the eleven did not put up the contest they are capable of playing.

The ginger that has been shown throughout the entire season was particularly lacking and it is claimed that both the Athletics' scores were secured after Bukes had been made by the local team. In addition Crotus' inability to play seriously affected the hitherto almost perfect team play of the backfield and Elde was in no condition to stand a hard contest. Kirkhoff was the only player who seemed to be in his usual form.

Manager Berry insists the stars will meet State College at the Colosseum Saturday, notwithstanding the claim made by Washington and Jefferson that the Centre county collegians will play in Washington on the same date.

LABOR LEAGUE PUTS OFF ITS WAR PAINT

Move to Protect It From Packed Sessions—Little Reflection of Row.

The United Labor League of Western Pennsylvania put off all its war paint at its regular meeting last night for routine business, with 60 delegates present. At the opening of the session there was a reflection of the factional split of the last meeting, which was adjourned by the police, in a proposal that the minutes of the subsequent rump meeting in Wylie avenue be read. This was voted down.

A constitutional amendment was offered by George Newcomb of the Amalgamated Engineers providing that when credentials for new delegates are offered they shall be referred to the credential committee and not received till the next meeting. The object of this is to prevent packing meetings with new delegates. The amendment was referred and will probably be voted on at the next league meeting.

The contingent which stood for the admission of the new delegates of the last meeting scored a victory in having seated seven of the 27 new men. These were all that appeared at the meeting. The session had to settle down to business without its records, which are locked in a safe in the office of W. J. Burke, the leader of the Ballot Reform crowd, which carried them away after the row of the last meeting.

It is understood that there will be no hitch over their return. The funds which Recording Secretary Siegler went away with in disgust after the trouble of the night of October 28, are in the hands of the treasurer. All the regular officers were in their places last night.

Nothing was done or said in reference to the creation of a labor political party for the spring elections. This matter was put in the hands of a committee of five a few months ago with instruction to cooperate with committees from the other central bodies and report back a plan. The Iron City council has tabled the matter.

B. & O. LOSES A LINE.

Youngstown Road May Be Secured by Jones & Laughlins.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—A significant fact in connection with the proposed railroads through this city is the announcement that the Trumbull & Mahoning road, a short line through the city and connecting with the Ohio plant of the National Steel Company and other industries, is no longer controlled by the Baltimore & Ohio. The road was built and is owned by local capitalists, and has been under the control of the Baltimore & Ohio for seven years.

It is surmised that one of the proposed roads, either the one projected by Jones & Laughlins of Pittsburgh or the French line, may secure possession of the short line to enter the city.

BASEBALL PLAYER SHOT AND ROBBED

Allemang, a Pitcher Signed With Cincinnati, Mortally Wounded.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

POMEROY, O., Nov. 8.—Harry Allemang, a ball player who pitched in the Southern league this season and who signed with Cincinnati for the coming year, was shot and mortally wounded at Mason, W. Va., his home, early this morning.

Allemange had been out with friends and was returning home at 3 o'clock. He found burglars at work in the postoffice. A sentry on the outside ordered Allemang to halt. No attention was paid to the command, and the sentry fired on Allemange, the bullet entering his back and lodging in the left lung. Physicians state that the wound is fatal.

When Allemang had fallen to the ground the robbers took $80 from him.

CHARGED WITH ARSON.

Altoona Man Taken Into Custody. Residence is Destroyed.

ALTOONA, PA., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Stephen Yeager of this city was arrested this morning to answer the charge of arson. During the night the cellar of the Marriott hotel was broken into and a quantity of liquor taken. Later in the night the basement of the residence of D. A. Reagan, an engineer, was broken into and the intruder, after building a fire in the cook stove and remaining for several hours, set fire to the house and made his escape. As the fire spread the Reagan family was aroused. Loss of $1,000 was inflicted.

Yeager, who has served a term in the Huntington reformatory for arson, acknowledged the Marriott hotel robbery, it is alleged. As the liquor taken at the hotel was found in the Reagan basement, the police are confident of their ability to convict Yeager of the arson charge.

ROBBED THE DEPOT.

Negroes Hauled Goods From a Railroad Station.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Two negroes last night robbed the United States express office and the Baltimore & Ohio baggage room. At the time when the station was crowded, a train being due, they loaded a cart with a drummer's trunk and a valise and clothes that were being shipped by Foster & Co., the dyers of this city. They pushed their load down one of the principal streets to a vacant lot.

While one of the negroes was going through the trunk the other sat in the cart and watched for the police. Officers found the men and the negroes fled. One, however, was arrested.

SPEAKEASIES FLOURISH.

Keepers Dodge Across County Line at Trafford City.

IRWIN, PA., Nov. 9.—(Special.)—Speakeasies are a flourishing industry at Trafford City, and it is a good point to escape punishment for carrying on the illegal traffic on account of its being close to the Allegheny and Westmoreland line. The keepers can dodge from one county to the other in a couple of minutes, and, therefore, keep the officers guessing.

A private detective found that the traffic was conducted by a couple of Italians. The men were operating in a shanty built on the Westmoreland side, and the officer came here and made information against Patrick and Stephen Gearri for selling liquor without a license. They gave bail for hearing.

DYING MAN HOLDS SECRET OF SHOOTING

Scottdale Citizen Claims to Know Who Wounded Frank Moon.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SCOTTDALE, PA., Nov. 9.—The only new development in the case of Frank Moon, who was shot here Friday evening, comes from a friend of Moon, who says that the name of the man who did the shooting is Rankin. He said that some time ago Moon caused the arrest of Rankin and another man for "moonshining," and that Rankin threatened to get even with him.

A man who was in the barroom of the Scottdale house when the shot was fired heard two men arguing about "moonshine," and it was reported to the police that the men had had words on the same subject earlier in the day.

A report from Connellsville hospital says that Moon is gradually sinking, but he still refuses to divulge the name of the man who shot him.

BEAVER FALLS FACTORY IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Flames Cause a Loss of $100,000 in Keystone Driller Plant.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BEAVER FALLS, PA., Nov. 9.—Early this morning Night Watchman Gilmore, on duty at the plant of the Keystone Driller Company, discovered the plant in flames. The fire spread quickly and soon communicated to the machine, erecting and pattern departments, and the firemen were not able to get the flames under control until the three departments were a mass of ruins, together with all their contents. The costly machinery and six finished drillers ready for shipment and valued at over $3,000. The loss reached fully $100,000, on which there is an insurance of about $55,000.

Chief Midley of the fire department says he could have confined the flames to the department in which they started had not the heavy water pressure burst one section of hose after another just at the most critical period. Some 15 sections of hose were burst.

What caused the fire is a mystery.

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT FROM SAGGING MARKET

Trouble of Trust Company of Republic in Financing Shipbuilding Company Furnishes Good Lesson to Wall Street Speculators.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 9.

The opinion hazarded one week ago, that the then pending uncertainty as to the outcome of the election would be found to have little or nothing to do with the sagging and apathetic condition of the stock market, has been well sustained by the course of prices during the week. The success of the Republican party at the polls was not followed by any increase in activity or enthusiastic upbidding of the market, on the contrary, after a little hardening of prices, due to the covering of short contracts by small professional operators, the sagging tendency was resumed and continued, broken only by some irregular recoveries until the closing days of the week, when Wall street experienced some real liquidation and a violent break in the general security list.

Possibly if the Democratic party had carried the house of representatives, instead of merely cutting down the Republican majority, the declines might have been accelerated a trifle, but persons who look deeper than the surface, are agreed that the fundamental conditions would not have been altered in the slightest by such an outcome. It is the fundamental conditions, not the surface demonstrations or sympathetic influences which are working the re-adjustment of prices in Wall street, establishing more nearly an equilibrium between prices and intrinsic worth, measured by the standard of the value of money, and its proper yield when safely employed.

Rumors Are Only Rumors.

Fortunately, the sinister rumors which influenced the severe break in the stock market Saturday failed to materialize, and the difficulties arising out of the attempt of the Trust Company of the Republic, a young and untried institution, to finance so ambitious an enterprise as the United States Shipbuilding Company, have been adjusted by the formation of a relief syndicate, which in effect underwrites the underwriters.

Satisfactory as is this outcome, the lesson which it conveys will probably not be lost upon the Wall street public, to whose mind the thought will naturally concur. How many other institutions are there whose available funds are tied up in syndicate undertakings and other slow collateral, and what might be the result if, in other cases where participants fail to make good their subscriptions or for other causes no relief syndicate stands ready to underwrite the underwriting concern?

For months the public has read of many combinations formed in this city and elsewhere of which nothing has subsequently been heard. Vast sums of capital must have been tied up in such cases, and in fact a condition which, without invidious comparison, may be said to be typified in the Trust Company of the Republic must exist elsewhere. And again, merely as a matter of illustration, it may be stated that the condition is regarded as a weak point in the present situation among conservative bankers.

Money Is More Firm.

The money market received much consideration during the week, not only in consequence of the note of caution sounded by Mr. Vanderlip a week ago, and the supplementary explanation of Mr. Schiff, but also from the actual developments. A distinctly firmer tendency was noted for call funds, which touched 6 per cent on the last three days of the week, while time money was in less plentiful supply at the legal rate for the short periods.

There is no disguising the fact that money is not easy, and is not loaned with freedom on stock collateral. The treasury drain continues, now that the bond purchases have ceased and the secretary of the treasury has suspended the depositing of public funds in the banks. Moreover, the return flow of currency from the interior has not only not set in, but is continuing.

LIGHT FOREIGN TRADING.

London Is Waiting for New York to Set the Pace in Stock Dealing.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The general outlook on the stock exchange last week was fairly encouraging, but practically no business was done. The American elections, the improved financial situation in Wall street and the excellent traffic reports of home railroads were all quoted by the optimists as presaging a return of the market's activity, but the net result was merely some small investment buying of the best class of securities. The fact is the immense amount of stock of every sort which is carried on borrowed money hangs over the market and is only awaiting a slight improvement to take profits and get clear. London wants New York to start the upward movement; until this is done there will be little prospect of excitement here.

Money was fairly abundant last week, rates tending to be lower.

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—The boerse experienced considerable disappointment last week because Wall street refused to boom up on the result of the election and because the Deutsche bank's increase of capital was only $2,500,000, the boerse having expected an increase of $7,500,000. All bank stocks rose strongly until the actual figures of the Deutsche bank's increase were published on Friday, when sharp reaction ensued. Yesterday almost all the bank stocks closed lower than they did the previous week.

Professional speculators were more active last week and caused greater fluctuations in quotations than is usual. The attempts to entice outsiders to participate in transactions was a failure. The market gave little attention to domestic or foreign loans and its chief activity was in industrial shares, but in this department the tendency was not uniform. Iron and coal shares mostly declined several points, but some machinery securities scored marked advances. Electrical shares rose from two to four points. The failure of the Allgemeine electrikaest Gesellschaft of Berlin were lower upon certain disappointing features in the company's annual report.

The Rhine-Westphalian pig iron syndicate was renewed yesterday for one year. It is now said that the forthcoming municipal loan of Berlin will amount to $56,220,000.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF PRODUCE MARKETS

Refined Sugar Much Lower. Canned Corn Is Higher, Cheese Advancing.

It has been a week of heavy receipts, and not a few happenings in the hay and grain market, price fluctuation occurring in several lines. Hay closed the week a little easier than at the opening, the slightly lowered quotations being due to the large amount of stock received. Notwithstanding this fact prices have held up much better than might have been expected, an excellent demand taking care of well graded hay without trouble, and sellers at no time lost heart, or attempted to force sales by concessions. The market is now in good condition, with top grades in request. Straw of all kinds is so scarce as to be almost unprocurable, and quotations have gone forward. Buyers are seeking straw, and are not able to get sufficient to supply immediate wants. Old yellow shelled corn is in very limited supply and quotations are slightly higher. Bar oats unchanged with some now arriving, which has been offered as low at 49 cents. Rye remains unchanged. Cuts went down a cent early in the week, but later reacted half that amount and so closed. Bran is active and 50 cents a ton higher.

Refined Sugar Declines Twice.

Refined sugar all went off 10 points on Wednesday, and on Saturday another decline of the same amount occurred in all white sugars from confectioners A up through the list. This makes a total decline of 20 points in granulated, which is a stiffer reduction than is often made in so short a space of time, and leads jobbers to wonder whether it is over, or where it will end. Usually declines occur earlier in the fall season, but the brightly demand and firm raw sugars have held the market firm at the decline of the average year. Flour is unchanged, except for the differential charge of five cents additional on paper eighths, put in force by the mills during the week. Cereals are unchanged. Coffee is as it was at the beginning of the week. New crop molasses has commenced to arrive and prices are ruling higher than those for old. Molasses and syrups are in active request and supplies are somewhat limited. Canned corn is higher, canned peas unchanged, but easier by reason of the offering of imported stock at prices 15 cents a bushel below the American product. Red kidneys are now in the market, commanding high figures.

Canned Corn Higher.

But one change was made in canned vegetables, that being an advance in corn, which is very strong, and ruling from 5 to 15 cents a dozen higher than at the opening of the week. Tomatoes are steady, but have made no forward movement, being a trifle lower than they were a week ago, old stock still offering and superior to new which was packed rather early. French sardines are higher, the catch having been small, and Portugals with stocks carried over from last season in the hands of importing jobbers the only reliance. Domestic catches were fairly good, but many of the fish ran large, and increase the quantity of mustards at the expense of the 2¼-lb oval.

Dried fruits succeeded in getting through the week without a change, and prices all rule as they did last Monday. Demand for prunes has come around some and the volume of orders is daily increasing.

Salt fish holds its own at quotations of last week, and is in excellent request, notwithstanding the fact that ruling quotations are very high.

Track Potatoes Easier.

Notable among the doings in the produce market was a slight decline in Irish potatoes in car lots and trade, the latter price continuing at old figures. Sweet potatoes are a shade easier than at the beginning of last week, but are still dearly held. Florida cucumbers and Danish cabbage are new arrivals. After several fluctuations Florida tomatoes closed the week at higher prices than ruled at the opening. String beans went down considerably below quotations of last Monday, but reacted several days and, though still closing a trifle under the opening. Winter vegetables are unchanged.

Apples came in with great freedom early in the week, and it looked for a short time as though many would be badly shaken up, but the sharp demand for winter storing kept the market from going to pieces, and a good tone which generally ruled the second half of the week ruling. Concord grapes held at prices of last Monday.

Tropical fruits are very firm, new arrivals being grape fruit and pineapples. California grapes are still offering, but are a shade easier, while Malagas are very firm.

Chicken Trade Inactive.

The poultry market shows no change in the list of prices, except a slight decline in live turkeys, but the situation lacks strength, and trade is dragy. While listed quotations control the average sale, a number of transactions are reported where round lots of choice ones went at prices deeply cut. Receipts have been of fairly free nature, but demand has not been heavy.

Butter is steady, no change in quotations for Monday, although a lower tone had been really expected an advance. Supply is needed, but quality is at its worst, as always at this season of the year, caused by cows eating weeds. Usually about the middle of November farmers commence to feed grain, and a marked improvement in butter, and consequently butter, follows this change in diet. Cheese is active and advancing, with 11½ cents reached as the ruling price in some sales of full cream, New York. Fresh eggs are very scarce, and will so continue until the winter lay sets in. Quotations for October, November and September stock are shrinking. Storage eggs are offering, and will from now on be more of a factor in the market.

The canned fruit and jelly list of prices were slight advances in California hams and New York shoulders.

AMERICA LEADS WORLD IN COAL

Figures Show More Than One-Third of Production Is in United States.

GREAT BRITAIN IS NEXT

United Kingdom Far Ahead in Matter of Exportation, While We Are Poor Third in Race. Where Markets Are Found.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
603 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 9.

"The World's Coal Supply and Trade" is the title of a monograph just issued by the treasury bureau of statistics. It shows that the United States not only leads the world in coal production, but has advanced from third place to the head of the list since 1880. In 1880 the United States produced one-fifth of the coal of the world; last year its production was one-third of the total of the world. The coal production of the United States has quadrupled since 1880, while that of the remainder of the world has not quite doubled. The three great coal-producing countries are the United States, Great Britain and Germany. These three countries produce practically 80 per cent of the world's coal. Since 1880 the United States has increased her output by 221,000,000 short tons, Germany by 103,000,00 tons, and the United Kingdom by 80,000,00. The relation of these three great coal-producing countries to the world's coal supply, and the growing importance of the United States in that relationship are indicated by the following table, which shows the production in each of the three and in all countries in 1880 and 1901, and the actual increase and per cent of increase in each case:

Countries.	Production in 1880. Short tons.	Production in 1901. Short tons.	Pct. of increase.
United States	71,981,552	293,258,552	310.6
United Kingdom	164,695,751	245,332,578	49.2
Germany	65,177,034	168,217,082	158.4
All others	63,472,464	155,317,304	144.8

It will be seen from the above figures that the United States not only advanced from third place to first from 1880 to 1901, but that her actual increase in production was nearly as much as that of all the rest of the world combined, the actual increase from 1880 to 1901 being: United States, 221,816,947 short tons; all other countries, 275,011,188 tons.

The following table shows the coal production of the world in the latest available year, the figures for the United States, United Kingdom, Germany and France being for 1901, the others for 1900:

Countries.	Short tons.	Pct. of total.
United States	293,258,552	33.86
United Kingdom	245,332,578	28.32
Germany	168,217,082	19.42
Austria-Hungary	48,070,748	5.54
France	33,566,556	4.13
Belgium	25,856,924	3.00
Russia	17,709,016	2.00
Japan	8,187,262	1.00
Other countries	28,867,705	3.32
Total	866,165,540	100.00

While the United States is the world's largest producer it has accomplished little as an exporter. The following figures show the exportation of coal in excess of imports, of all countries whose exports exceed the imports. The figures are metric tons of 2,204 pounds and are for the latest available year, in most cases for 1901.

The following shows the total importation of coal in the principal countries of the world at the latest available year, in metric tons, and thus indicates the principal markets of the world:

United Kingdom, 37,775,000; Germany, 11,103,000; United States, 5,461,000; New South Wales, 3,362,000; Belgium, 3,264,000; Japan, 2,860,000; Natal, 992,000; India, 239,000.

France, 29,829,000; Germany, 5,790,000; Austria-Hungary, 6,440,000; Italy, 4,839,000; Canada, 4,245,000; Russia, 3,631,000; Sweden, 3,120,000; Belgium, 3,103,000; Spain, 2,153,000; Australasia, 1,285,000; Argentina, 920,000; Brazil, 790,000; Mexico, 780,000; Cuba, 372,000.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY.

St. Joseph's Church, Braddock, Yesterday Observed Its Twenty-fifth Birthday.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of St. Joseph's German Catholic church, George street, Braddock, was celebrated with elaborate ceremonies yesterday. The services were of a special character.

The services opened with solemn high mass at 10:30 o'clock, the celebrant being the Rev. Charles Hipp of Allegheny, a former member of St. Joseph's parish, who was born in Braddock and spent his life there until ordained to the priesthood. He was assisted by the Rev. Father Clement, O. S. B. of St. Vincent's college, Latrobe, and the Rev. Father T. Boniface of St. Michael's church of the South Side. Among the priests in the sanctuary were the Rev. Father P. S. May and the Rev. Father Bonevanto of Wilmerding.

The sermon was preached in English by the Rev. Father Bonevanto.

Rosewig's solemn vespers was sung in the evening by the large choir, and the vespers was conducted by the Rev. Father J. J. Buillon of St. Mary Magdalene's church of Homestead, assisted by the Rev. Father M. Miller of Thompson's Run, and the Rev. Father Charles Hipp. At the close of the vespers the Rev. Father S. F. Kittell delivered a sermon in German, and the Rev. Father A. A. Lambing of St. James church of Wilkinsburg delivered a sermon in English. Rev. Father John Hickey made a congratulatory address, and the Rev. Father May gave a historical sketch of the congregation.

ALARM FROM PULPITS.

Strange Disappearance of an Allegheny Boy Visiting in Wilkinsburg Announced by Pastors.

Edwin Du'er, aged 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duber of No. 5 Filbert street, Allegheny, wandered away from the home of Fred Nemert, No. 1416 Coal street, Wilkinsburg, about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His disappearance was reported to the Wilkinsburg police and was announced from the various pulpits last night.

The little one, with its parents, was visiting the Nemerts and was in the front yard playing with other children. The child's absence was not noticed until Mrs. Nemert called the children to dinner. They were confused and could tell nothing regarding what had become of the child—whether it had wandered away or had been kidnaped. The child wore a red waist and black trousers.

SIX COWS WERE STOLEN.

Owner Left Them in Pasture and They Turned up at McKeesport.

Thomas Binkerton of West Elizabeth, who had six cows stolen from his pasture on Saturday, notified the McKeesport police that he would be there this morning to reclaim his stock and to appear against William Jones, colored, who is locked up at McKeesport under suspicion of stealing the cows.

Jones tried to sell the animals in McKeesport on Saturday for $50 to Peters & Co., who refused to make the purchase until satisfied of Jones' ownership. They telephoned police headquarters and Officers Fred Lamp and Charles Baird entered into a bargain with Jones to buy the cattle for $30. Then they took the man into custody. The cows were left at Peter & Co.'s slaughter house. Jones says he has a confederate.

DEDRICK TELLS DIFFERENT TALE

Was Always Ready to Give Medical Aid to Men of Peary's Party.

WAS REFUSED SUPPLIES

Lay Ill for Three Months Because for Want of Proper Food. Story of Hardships While Member of North Pole Expedition.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, N. J., Nov. 9.—Dr. T. S. Dedrick, who accompanied the Peary arctic expedition, and who left it while in the north, has written a statement of his side of the affair with Lieut. Peary. He gives no cause for his resignation, other than disagreement with the explorer. Dedrick says he only went a short distance from Peary's camp and kept himself ready for a call in case of illness in the party. Continuing the statement says:

January 14th I wrote to Peary from Cape Sabine asking for medicine for an Eskimo, who was a member of our party the first year. It stated that an epidemic of scarlet rash had attacked the settlements of Kockan and Aporitok, and said: "You have only to let me know in case my services are required by you. I shall remain here until you leave Sabine unless driven away by scarcity of natives or food."

Told to Keep Away.

I received the following reply: "It is not necessary for you to ask for medicine in behalf of the Eskimos. Any medicine that I can spare will be sent just as quickly if you say outright that you want that for yourself. I will relieve your anxiety about Ahmadagiliou by saying that I am not likely to press him into service, and you therefore will not be under the necessity of seeking a new host. I am not interested in your movements, as long as you keep completely away from me and my stations."

Rather than accept my medical services for his child the Eskimo threw a stone's throw of his door were the graves of seven of his party who had died within a couple of months of his refusing my medical services at first. Mr. Peary never said any thing to me when this man was afterward critically ill in his service.

January 26th I wrote: "I will ask you to sell me 75 pounds of flour, 12 pounds corn, 5 pounds cocoa, 5 pounds tea, 8 pounds bacon, small bag of salt, few jars of beef extract. Our list or omit. If coffee can be spared and not sugar; then coffee alone." The reply named: "I regret that I have no provisions to spare." He sent me some salt and four 2 ounce jars beef extract. I returned this, with a note: "You seem to have to figure very close on provisions. I return the salt. You may need it."

March 7th I sent to Sabine from a visit to the lower settlements to ask for medicine for dying Eskimos. Mr. Peary had left on the day before. The steward refused the medicine and would not allow two natives ill at headquarters to be treated (one of whom died a little later) without Mr. Peary's order. I sledged 435 miles, the entire trip, and returned to find one native dead and another died next day. From getting slightly wet on the journey during a forced march in a storm, I went to bed ill. Diarrhoea ensued, lasting three months, until I got a change of food from the whalers. I had same trouble two months in the fall.

His Responsibility Ends.

May 20th I went to Sabine to complete the removal of my effects. Mr. Peary had returned. I was offered no entertainment, but directed to leave the station as soon as possible, which I did without sleeping.

I felt that my responsibility to stay at Aporitok had ended. I went 250 miles to Cape York, hoping to get mail via whalers. They gave me generous supplies. I was brought mail by the Windward, August 3. I was given no supplies. Her return on August 28 was grateful, as twice previously she had been frozen in and detained all winter. I lived the year in Eskimo huts, eating their coarse, uncleanly food, but returned in excellent health, and escaped all the Arctic and in good health and fine spirits.

My motives for remaining north were as pure as the driven snow, as plain as A B C, and as open as day. Eyes, face or hands. They were simply that I would not leave men in the Arctic without a chance for medical aid.

The animosity exhibited in the endeavor to brand me and bring me into disrepute, the refusing my unpaid salary on such technical grounds, Mr. Peary's almost inhuman treatment of me without provocation during the last year, and Mr. Peary's approach me for the fifth year on the side of the channel uninhabited by Eskimos, at the expedition vessel taking final leave of I was on the headquarter's side of the channel when the ship arrived, make reasons for my resignation unnecessary.

THE THREE RIVERS.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9.—River 5 feet and stationary. Packets on time. The towboats Charles Brown, John A. Wood, Ed Roberts and Tom Rees No. 9 are laid up at Gallipolis awaiting a rise. The Iron Age is at Letart. The towboat Bill Clark, which ran through herself several weeks ago, has been thoroughly repaired and is at Portsmouth awaiting a rise. The scarcity of labor promises to be a thing of the past for the time being at least. The cold weather has driven in many of the roustabouts, who have been in the country at work on the trenton roads.

TRIED TO FORCE HER TO COMMIT CRIMES

Eva Daniels of Syracuse Victim of Man's Duplicity—Police Magistrates' Busy Day.

The police magistrates in both Pittsburgh and Allegheny had a busy day yesterday. At Central station, where 74 cases were heard by Magistrate Bernard McKenna, Eva Daniels of Syracuse, N. Y., said that she had been persuaded by C. A. Seaman, also of Syracuse, to run away with him, leaving an invalid child in a hospital there.

On their arrival here, Seaman tried to persuade her to enter a disreputable house, and failing in that proposed that they work the badger game. She was to entice men to their rooms in Elm street and he, surprising the victims, was to extort money from them, under threats of exposure. This also she refused to do, and she alleges that Seaman then beat her and abused her shamefully. Seaman was sent to the workhouse for 30 days, in default of a $25 fine, and the woman's relatives in Syracuse will be notified of her plight.

William Bland, colored, was held for a further hearing. It is alleged that Bland assaulted a white girl who was walking on Grant street and dragged her to a disorderly house. Her screams brought aid, and Bland was forced to release her.

Paul Carlish and Geiz Odrev, Poles, of No. 2821 Penn avenue, were fined $10 by Magistrate McMasters. When arrested by Officer J. F. H. McLaughlin they drew knives and made an attack on him, and were only subdued by several shots fired by the policeman.

Magistrate McMasters also sent Alice White and Edward Anderson, colored, to the workhouse for keeping disorderly houses, and fined nine visitors $3 each.

At the Oakland station, Magistrate Armstrong fined Clyde Cotrell, a Baltimore & Ohio brakeman, $5, for assaulting his wife. The woman was at first thought to be seriously injured, and the affair was heralded as a murder, but her injuries proved superficial, and she refused to appear against her husband.

INCENDIARY FIRE AT WILKINSBURG

Tenants of Fahnestock Block Had Exciting Escape from Flames.

A fire, believed to have been caused by an incendiary, yesterday morning destroyed a three-story apartment house in Wilkinsburg owned by Vernon Fahnestock. The tenants narrowly escaped with their lives. The loss is estimated at $20,000.

The entire structure was enveloped by flames and smoke when the alarm was given. The family of William Allen, who lived on the third floor, were forced to walk in their night clothing across an ironing board over an area way to the building adjoining. Miss Effie Craig and Miss Rose Summers, who were asleep in the apartments below, were also suffocated in making their way to the street. The bakery of W. R. Walker, which occupied the basement and first floor of the building, was totally destroyed, and the effects of the other tenants were badly damaged.

A short time before the alarm was turned in it is reported that a noise was heard in the basement and neighbors believe that an incendiary was at work.

Art of the Best
Sideboards

Time cannot dim the impression which a real work of art makes upon a person who is capable of appreciating the products of genius. And the best class of furniture is as thoroughly artistic as are any of the masterpieces of painting.

It is a pleasure to call the reader's attention to the magnificent Sideboard illustrated above. Massive and dignified, it is very impressive, and the elaborateness of the carving bespeaks the genius of the person who conceived and executed it.

Such furniture is for those who make their homes something more than a mere lodging place. And yet, despite the elegance of this piece, you'll find that the price is consistently moderate. For first, last and all the time, price is an inducement at

The Great Curtain Sale Today.

$2.50 A Pair for Ruffled Net Curtains. $1.00 A Pair for Ruffled Muslin Curtains.

The news of this sale has already been given out, so a brief mention this morning is all that is required, with a hint as to your being as early as your household affairs will allow, in this Department of the 4th floor.

These Curtains came to us from a noted firm which is about to dissolve. When we say to you many of the ruffled and plain edge Net Curtains sold wholesale—not retail, but wholesale—for $4.25, $5, $5.50, $6, $8.50 and $9.50 a pair, and that the majority of the ruffled muslin Curtains sold wholesate for $1 and $1.25 a pair—you will at once realize what astonishing Curtain bargains we are about to give you.

Ruffled Curtains are just about the neatest window decoration that can be used.

The Fine Linens Again.

Quotations principally on Thanksgiving Linens, and the time is not any too long for selecting the napery you intend to improve your table with on Thanksgiving Day.

Speaking in general we have to say a store must have a large clientele before it dares to bring over to Pittsburg such large quantities, and such fine Linens, as we are showing today. Pittsburg never had such another display. For Western Pennsylvania we control the output of several foreign Linen factories and in this plain statement you have the facts as to why medium to finest Linens can always be bought from us very much lower in price than anywhere in the Greater City, with sumptuous assortments from which to choose.

Linen Table Sets.

$3.75 the set—usually selling for $4.50—bleached damask Cloth 2 by 2 yards, and one dozen bleached damask Napkins to match.

$6.75 each—usually selling for $10.75—45 by 45 inches Renaissance Lace Table Covers.

Fine Hair Brushes, 25c Each.

When we tell you they are 1-4 of their real value, you may say, "Then why don't you sell them for $1." Simply because we bought them so that we can sell them for 25c.

Briefly: A manufacturer who has the contract for making Brushes for a largely advertised concern had several thousand brushes thrown on his hands owing to some technicality in the contract.

He was naturally piqued and to be piqued ofttimes leads to recklessness. So the manufacturer, being in a huff, gave us 720 of these Brushes for the proverbial song.

Come and buy one and see if you ever paid $2.50 for the same Brush bearing a patented name.

Women's Street Suits Modestly Priced.

We don't know whether it is the rapid increase of Pittsburg's population or the general and unexampled good time with which Pittsburg is blessed; whether it is our great variety of Suits and the very modest prices at which they are marked, that is bringing to this Department of the 2d floor the greatest and most prosperous trade it ever enjoyed. One thing is sure, we never, even in our wildest dreams, imagined that ready tailored feminine dress would attain its present prominent standing. The business we are now doing, and have been for the past two months, is simply phenomenal.
